

NEW YORK PAYS TRIBUTE TO AIR HERO

THREE CHICAGO JUDGES UNDER FIRE

CRIME COMMISSION REQUESTS REMOVAL ON GRAVE CHARGES

Allege Jurists Have Nullified Felony Indictments.

CHICAGO, April 27.—A demand of the Chicago crime commission that three criminal court judges be removed from the bench, today engaged the attention of the executive committees of the circuit and superior courts. These latter committees are responsible for the appointment and removal of criminal court judges.

The three jurists who drew the fire of the crime commission are, Emanuel Eller, Otto Kerner and Stanley Klarkowski.

The crime commission, through its president, Frank J. Loesch, charges the three judges were put on the criminal bench at the instigation and through the influence of politicians, against the protest of the Chicago Bar Association.

The charge lists the three named judges as the worst offenders on the criminal bench in the practice of recent years of striking off a major charge against a criminal accepting a plea of guilty on a minor charge, and eliminating jury and trial, but at the same time "bargaining" with the criminal on the exchange of lesser punishment for a plea of guilty.

It is charged that Judges Eller, Kerner and Klarkowski have nullified a total of 364 felony indictments during the past three months.

The statement against the judges, which was signed by President Loesch, said in part:

"The man who runs may need from the record why politics needed them on the bench. During three months there was only one trial and capital conviction for murder, and that not of a gunman but of a doctor who had performed an abortion.

"During the same three months 400 jurors were in daily attendance waiting to be called to try such murderers and gunmen as had been arrested and indicted; but it was easier to waive gun counts and secure pleas of guilty on minor offenses of which the criminals were not guilty, and so make a cheap record for the state's attorney and the judges."

MERGER OF DAIRY FIRMS IS PLANNED

CLEVELAND, April 27.—According to agreements entered in between certain stockholders of the Telling-Belle-Vernon Company, largest dairy products distributor in this district, and those of the National Dairy Products Company, of New York, the two companies soon may be merged to make what is expected to be the largest company of its kind in the United States.

Financing for such a consolidation already has been underwritten, it was learned here today. Terms of exchange call for fifty shares of National Dairy stock in return for seventy eight shares of Telling. Fractional shares would be settled in cash with National Dairy rating at $75 per share. It was said.

The proposed merger would give the National Dairy assets of approximately $100,000,000, it was understood. The agreement could be determined by the National Company automatically unless a majority of Telling stock was deposited by May 29, this year, according to the terms agreed upon.

HUGHES SUGGESTS ARBITRATION PLAN

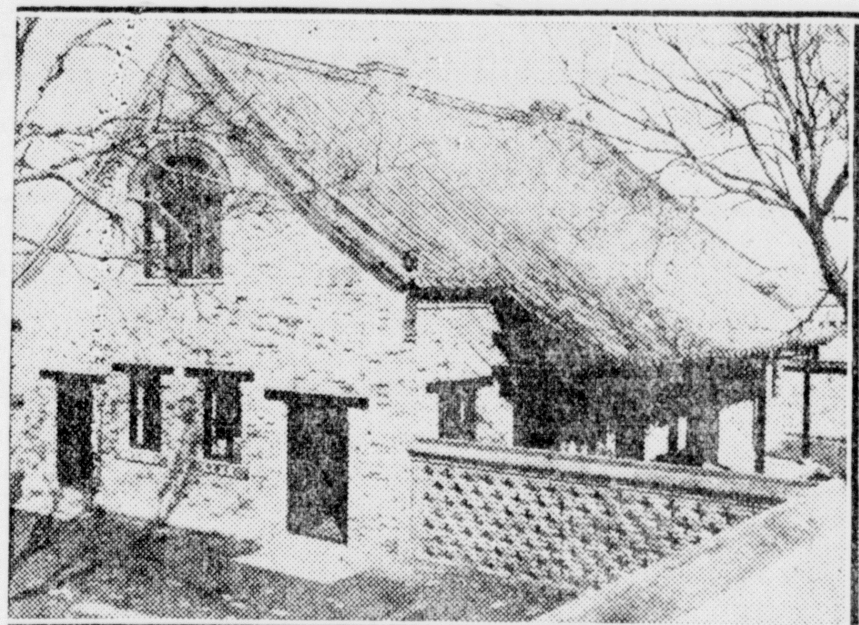

WASHINGTON, April 27.—Obligatory arbitration of disputes between the countries of Latin America was put forward today by Charles Evans Hughes, former secretary of state, as a goal toward which American statesmanship should work unceasingly. He spoke before the American Society of International Law.

"We could make no more hopeful endeavor to cement our friendship with Latin American countries," he said, "nor to justify the leadership we desire to take in the cause of peace."

There is a kinship between the peoples of the western hemisphere, Hughes declared, that prevails nowhere else in the world.

"In this hemisphere," he said, "we have a common political inheritance in our devotion to the ideals of liberty. We are all sons of American Revolutions. We have all revolted against tyranny. We have thus been drawn together by a common sentiment which makes us neighbors in spirit."

AMERICAN KILLED IN CHINESE OFFENSIVE

While other Americans and foreigners fled Tsinan, capital of Shantung province, China, on the approach of Nationalist troops, driving toward Peking, under General Feng Yuhsiang, Dr. W. F. Seymour, American medical missionary and superintendent of the Rose Bachman Memorial hospital, remained behind to meet death at the hands of a Chinese soldier when the city was taken. FIVE KILLED WHEN TRAIN HITS AUTO AT CROSSING; SIXTH HURT

COSHOCTON, O., April 27.—Five persons are dead and a sixth is recovering from minor injuries as the result of a grade crossing tragedy at Coshocton, near here, last night.

The dead are: Mrs. Charles Lepley, her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Gertrude Lepley, and the latter's two children, Jack, 4, and Sarah Jane, 7, and Mrs. Sidney Turner, all of Coshocton.

Mrs. Gertrude Lepley was driving the car when it was hit by a fast east bound Pennsylvania passenger train at the main crossing in the village. Her view of the track was obstructed by the railroad station.

All the victims were killed instantly except Mrs. Turner, who died enroute to a hospital. Charles Lepley, the sixth passenger in the car, was in a hospital here today but his injuries are not believed serious. The women's bodies were badly mangled, but the children died of fractured skulls. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lepley are the parents of Mrs. Emory Zumbro, whose husband is a pitcher on the Columbus American Association baseball team.

REP. MARTIN MADDEN DIES

WASHINGTON, April 27.—Representative Martin Madden, 73, Illinois, for many years one of the Republican leaders of the House, died this afternoon at the Capitol.

Congressman Madden was born in Darlington, Eng., March 20, 1855. He was a stone and quarry man and banker when he entered politics and was elected Representative in 1905. His home was in Chicago.

TRUAX FAVORS FARM RELIEF MEASURE IN ADDRESS THURSDAY

Share Prosperity With Farmer Is Director's Plea.

STEUBENVILLE, O., April 27.—"Give the farmer a share of the prosperity this country boasts of," was the plea of Director of Agriculture Charles V. Truax, in a speech before the Chamber of Commerce here last evening. This was Truax's first public appearance following the announcement that he was a Democratic candidate for the United States senate from Ohio.

The trend of Truax's talk showed that the director of agriculture was in hearty favor of the McNary-Haugen bill, now pending before congress, as the most sound basis for farm relief.

"A restoration of agriculture prosperity will benefit labor as much as it will the farmer himself," Truax declared.

Quoting Edgar Wallace, legislative representative of the American Federation of Labor, the director of agriculture said, "Forty per cent of the workers are idle today and the condition is growing worse. Give the farmers more money for their products and they will buy more of the labor output and keep more workers busy."

"Unless farmers are aided more, industrial workers will be thrown out of employment. The nation needs a supply of farm crops because this surplus represents the workers and the country's margin of safety, but this surplus should be handled in such a way that it will be a menace to producers. The McNary-Haugen bill," Truax concluded, "proposes the best means offered of controlling farm surpluses."

BEST FORECASTING POSSIBLE PLANNED BY WEATHER CHIEFS

Conference Held To Give Service For Ocean Flights

WASHINGTON, April 27.—Anticipating many trans-oceanic air flights this year international meteorologists are preparing to make available the best possible weather forecasts, particularly for the North Atlantic district.

Professor C. F. Marvin, director of the U. S. weather bureau, announced today that he would sail for Europe soon with E. B. Calvert, chief forecaster, to attend a series of meteorological conferences called by General Del Cambre, director of the French weather service.

Weather experts of England, Germany, Belgium, Italy, France, United States and other countries will be present to launch an international study, the results of which will mean much to aeronautical and marine navigation.

A special study will be made of North Atlantic weather. All steamship skippers will be asked to co-operate with the various weather services in reporting storms, winds, high and low pressure areas. Means of obtaining observations from ships and land stations all over the world will be considered.

Weather authorities agree that the secret of accurate forecasting lies in comprehensive information from every quarter of the globe. There are many regions, including the polar areas, from which no data is obtained.

While Marvin was inclined to feel that most of the trans-oceanic flight tragedies have resulted from the limited endurance of aircraft, he said that the North Atlantic weather, along the steamship lanes, is probably as unfavorable as in any quarter of the world.

In the East and West Indies, Marvin explained, storms of greater intensity occur, but over the North Atlantic there is a wide variety of changeable weather, that is a constant menace to aeronautical navigation.

"The lanes where the trans-Atlantic flyers travel also are the highways over which the storms move," Marvin said. "Farther to the north conditions are even worse. To the south, however, conditions are much better and east-west flyers would be favored by the mild trade winds."

The weather situation over the Pacific is regarded as more favorable than on the Atlantic.

Some airplane flights have resulted tragically because the flyers hopped off despite advance warning of unfavorable weather, according to Marvin. Lack of success in some cases may have been attributable to insufficient weather data, a condition which the European conferences hope to meet.

SALESMAN KILLED
COLUMBUS, O., April 27.—Funeral arrangements are being made today for Edward Patterson, 59, salesman, who died in a hospital here late yesterday, the result of injuries sustained in a grade crossing accident.

BOTH REPUBLICANS AND DEMOCRATS TO PRESENT TAX BILLS

Democrats Will Ask $122,000,000 More Than G. O. P.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—Two distinct tax bills, one by the Republicans proposing a $203,000,000 reduction and one by the Democrats offering a $325,000,000 slash, will be presented to the senate next week.

The Democrats will fight to either reduce or repeal all holdover wartime taxes while the administration will battle to hold the tax reduction within the limit fixed by the treasury. A veto by President Coolidge has been indicated if congress finally enacts a $300,000,000 tax slash.

A strange alliance between the administration forces and the Republican insurgent group was rumored today, by which the insurgents will support the administration's plan in return for abandonment of the Mellon proposal to repeal the federal inheritance tax. Administration leaders already have received the action of the senate finance committee by which it agreed to repeal this tax at a session two weeks ago, and the Republican bill will be reported with the tax left intact. The Democrats have favored retention of this tax.

A summary of the tax situation in the senate, as compared to existing law and the provisions of the $325,000,000 reduction authorized by the house, follows:

Corporate tax:
Present law: Tax of 13 1/2 per cent; house: cut to 11 1/2 per cent; senate Republicans: cut to 12 1/2 per cent; senate Democrats: cut to 11 1/2 per cent.

Tax on small corporations:
Present law: tax of 13 1/2 per cent; house: adopted graduated tax starting at 5 per cent on $1,000 and ending with 11 1/2 per cent above $15,000; senate Republicans: apply 12 1/2 to all; senate Democrats: adopted house plan. All three agreed to increase exemptions from $2,000 to $3,000.

Surveys on incomes:
Present law: Graduated tax, house, no change; Senate Republicans and senate Democrats voted a $25,000,000 slash on brackets between $12,000 and $75,000 but with different schedules.

Federal estate taxes:
Present law: graduated tax in which states share up to 80 per cent; house, and both senate plans retain it.

Admission taxes:
Present law: 10 per cent on tickets above 75 cents; house: raised the exemptions to $1; senate Republicans: raised exemptions to $3; senate Democrats: repealed the tax entirely.

Tax on prizefights:
Present law: 10 per cent of ticket value; house: placed 25 per cent tax on tickets above $5; senate Republicans and Democrats adopted this increased tax.

Automobile taxes:
Present law: 3 per cent of selling price; house and both senate groups repealed the tax.

Capital stock tax:
Present law: two cents per $100; house: cut to one cent; senate Republicans: retained two-cent tax; senate Democrats: cut to one cent.

Tax on club dues:
Present law: tax of 10 per cent; house: reduced to 5 per cent; senate Republicans: retain 10 per cent; senate Democrats: cut to 1 per cent.

Produce exchange sales tax:
Present law: 10 per cent on gross sales; house: repealed tax; senate Republicans: retain tax; senate Democrats: repeal tax.

The house, and both senate plans repeal the tax on cereal beverages while slashing the tax on wines to conform with lower tax on distilled spirits. This $1,000,000 slash was opposed by the treasury.

Numerous administrative changes were incorporated in the new Senate bill and these met with approval of both Republicans and Democrats.

FLYING CHIEF KILLED

ROME, April 27.—Gen. Guidotti, chief of staff of the Italian air force, was killed here this morning when a plane crashed.

YOUNGEST OFFICER OF D. A. R.

Mrs. Brooke Gwathmey White, Jr., of Florida, elected a vice president general of the national society, Daughters of the American Revolution, is believed the youngest woman ever to hold as high an office in the society. Elected at the convention of the organization in Washington, D. C., Mrs. White has made 22 speeches for national defense in the past three months.

SENATOR NORRIS QUESTIONS REPORT OF NICARAGUA SEIZURE

Points To Coincidence Between Announcement And Senate Debate—Minister Reports Nothing But Rumors Heard.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—Although fifteen days have passed since the reported seizure of La Luz mine in Nicaragua and six days since the announcement of the alleged seizure by the owners in New York, no confirmatory intelligence has been received by the state department from either Minister Charles C. Eberhardt, of Managua, or naval or marine corps commanders in Nicaragua.

The coincidence of the reported "seizure" at the exact moment the senate was scheduled to begin consideration of a proposal to curb the president's authority to direct American forces into foreign territory is described by Senator Norris (R. of Nebraska, as "queer" and "amazing."

Norris has twice demanded on the senate floor that James Gilmore Fletcher, president of La Luz and Los Angeles Mining Company, who announced the seizure last Saturday, be summoned before the senate foreign relations committee to disclose the basis of his reports.

The state department has wired information since Fletcher, a brother of Henry P. Fletcher, American ambassador at Rome and former under-secretary of state, announced the mine seizure last Saturday. In each case, Eberhardt replied that nothing more substantial than "rumors" were available.

No official comment upon the situation was available at the state department, although Fletcher had conferred with Secretary Kellogg over long distance telephone Monday, and was reported to have visited Washington on Tuesday. He did not see officials at the state department to recommit the bill.

ARMY WILL SHOCK FLYS TO DEATH

WASHINGTON, April 27.—The army is going to join the "swat-the-fly" movement this spring in a large way—with all modern improvements.

Quartermaster General B. F. Cheatham today approved experimental tests of a commercial electrical device to which will be attached screens doors which will shock every alighting fly to death immediately.

Only a small current is required, so that no danger or inconvenience to humans is involved. War department studies reveal that the greatest fly menace is in screen doors of mess kitchens, commissary store houses and company canteens. With the electrocution devices placed at strategic points it is expected that the early spring death rate in the fly kingdom will be so heavy, that if summer comes the swatters may be beaten into plough shares, or something.

Former Officer of D. A. R. Kills Self

WASHINGTON, April 27.—Mrs. Louise Reeve Hoover, 50, wife of the president of the National Savings and Trust Company, shot and killed herself in her apartment here late yesterday.

Her body was discovered by her husband, Wm. D. Hoover, when he went to her room. She had been in ill health for some time, he said, and recently had undergone an operation.

Two Firemen Killed In Fire

PATERSON, N. J., April 27.—Two firemen were killed and twelve injured today in a fire in Lynn's Department Store building here when an explosion caused a floor to collapse. One of the dead firemen's body was recovered.

The dead firemen were Marinus Baker and Edward Tribe.

KILLED IN QUARREL

COLUMBUS, O., April 27.—Funeral arrangements are being made for Harry Hartman, 36, today who was instantly killed late yesterday when a pistol discharged during a tussle with his wife.

Hartman intended to kill his wife according to police. Mrs. Hartman was exonerated.

FRIENDS FILE PAS BENNETT'S BIER IN FLYER'S HOME TOWN

Special Train Will Carry Navy Flyer To Washington.

NEW YORK, April 27.—On an army caisson draped with the Stars and Stripes, the body of Floyd Bennett was borne through the streets here today from the Grand Central Depot to the Seventy-First Regiment Armory. There, for one hour, the people of his home town—men, women and children—filed slowly past the flag-draped bier.

Burial, with high military and naval honors, is to take place this afternoon at the Arlington National Cemetery where so many of the nation's heroes have been laid to rest.

And while the funeral procession was being halted for New York City's homage, the three men for whom Bennett died—Bismarck, Koehl and Von Huenefeldt were waiting overseas for Washington to attend the funeral.

The body arrived on a special car. Aboard the train was the grief-stricken widow, Mrs. Cora Bennett, and the dead flyer's best friend, Commander Richard E. Byrd. It was with Byrd that Bennett achieved his greatest fame—a flight to the north pole.

The funeral procession moved slowly from the depot to the armory. On each side of the army caisson which bore the body marched eight armed soldiers and eight armed sailors in uniform. They were followed by one full company of the Seventy-First Regiment, National Guard, a company of the Sixteenth Infantry and about fifty uniformed sailors from the Brooklyn navy yard.

Mrs. Bennett and Byrd left immediately for the Baltimore Hotel where they were to remain until after the public paid its respects at the armory. At 9 o'clock, the doors of the armory were barred to the public and the room in which the coffin lay was reserved for a private service.

Four seaplanes from the Rockaway Point naval air station dropped floral tributes over the procession. Flags which would have greeted Bennett if he had lived to pilot the Bremen flyers back from Greenland Island were at half mast throughout the city.

A few minutes after eight o'clock the cortege arrived at the Armory. The body was taken to the private room of Colonel Walter Allen De Lamater, commanding officer of the Seventy-First Regiment, National Guard. The coffin was decorated with flowers from many friends, a particularly large bouquet having been sent by the mayor's committee. Then the public was admitted.

The casket, placed upon a catafalque, was all but concealed by the high-banked flowers, tributes from the city of New York, from the federal government, the Brooklyn navy yard, many flyers who had known Bennett, and friends.

Rich and poor alike filed past the casket where Bennett, arrayed in the uniform of a naval flyer, lay in state. He was wearing a flight suit in which he flew to his death. Lay. There working girls and society women, policemen and bankers, day laborers and high salaried professional men, actresses and housewives—people of every walk of life.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—Arrangements were being made for the capital's most impressive military funeral since that for Leonard Wood, with the arrival today of the remains of Floyd Bennett, U. S. N., whose heroic death while on a daring errand of relief, caused world-wide sorrow.

The body was scheduled to arrive at 3 p. m. today and will be taken at once to Arlington National Cemetery, under naval escort, to be buried in a plot close to that of Admiral Perry, arctic trail blazer, whose exploits in the frozen wasteland were so long the inspiration of the dauntless airman.

After a run of about 1,000 feet the plane took the air easily. It began to climb at once, meanwhile traveling in a westerly direction. It climbed steadily clearing the mountains to the west of the lake. Soon it was lost to view, but in five minutes it reappeared and circled over the airfield apparently waiting for Chamberlin to hop off.

Then Balchen swung to the south flying at an altitude of about 2,000 feet.

Mechanics started the motor of the Fairchild and the Ford came swinging back again "loafing" overhead while its escort was started. Chamberlin took off easily and gracefully and both planes sped southward and quickly were out of sight.

Share Prosperity With Farmer Is Direc-

STEUBENVILLE, O., April 27.—
"Give the farmer a share of the prosperity this country boasts of,"
was the plea of Director of Agriculture Charles V. Truax, in a speech before the Chamber of Commerce here last evening. This was Truax's first public appearance following the announcement that he

The trend of Truax's talk showed that the director of agriculture

Conference Held To Give Service For Ocean Flights

WASHINGTON, April 27.—Anticipating many trans-oceanic aircraft flights this year international meteorologists are preparing to make available the best possible weather forecasts, particularly for the North Atlantic district.

Professor C. F. Marvin, director of the U. S. weather bureau, announced today that he would sail for Europe soon with E. B. Calvert, chief forecaster, to attend a series of meteorological conferences called by General Del Cambre, director of the French weather service.

Weather experts of England,
Germany, Belgium, Italy, France,
United States and other countries
will be present to launch an international study, the results of which will mean much to aeronautical and marine navigation.

A special study will be made of North Atlantic weather. All steamship skippers will be asked to cooperate with the various weather services in reporting storms, winds, high and low pressure areas. Means of obtaining observations from ships and land stations all over the world will be considered.

The secret authorities agree that the secret of accurate forecasting in comprehensive information

There are many regions, including the polar areas, from which no data is obtained.

Marvin was inclined to feel that most of the trans-atlantic flight tragedies have resulted from the limited endurance of aircraft,
he said that North Atlantic weather,
along the steamship lanes, is probably as unfavorable as in any quarter of the world.

In the East and West Indies, Marvin explained, storms of great intensity occur, but over the North Atlantic there is a wide variety of changeable weather, that is a constant menace to aeronautical navigation.

The lanes where the trans-at-ditions are much better and eastward the winds would be favored by the mild trade winds over the Pacific is regarded as more favorable than on the Atlantic.

Some airplane flights have resulted tragically because the flyers were trapped off despite advance
warning of unfavorable weather,
according to Marvin. Lack of success in some cases may have been attributable to insufficient weather
data, a condition which the European conferences hope to meet.

BOTH REPUBLICANS AND DEMOCRATS TO PRESENT TAX BILLS

Democrats Will Ask $122,000,000 More Than G. O. P.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—Two distinct tax bills, one by the Republicans proposing a $203,000,000 reduction and one by the Democrats offering a $325,000,000 slash, will be presented to the senate
next week.

The Democrats will fight to either reduce or repeal all holdover wartime taxes while the administration will battle
to hold the tax reduction within the limit fixed by the treasury. A veto by President Coolidge has been indicated if congress finally enacts a $300,000,000 tax slash.

A strange alliance between the administration forces and the Republican insurgent group was rumored today, by which the insurgents will support the administration's plan in return for abandoning the Mellon proposal to repeal the federal inheritance tax.
Administration leaders already have reversed the action of the senate finance committee by which it voted to repeal this tax at a session two weeks ago, and the Republican bill will be reported with the tax let stand.

A summary of the tax situation
in the senate, as compared to existing law, and the provisions of the $325,000,000 reduction authorized by the house, follows:

Corporation tax:
Present law: Tax of 13 1/2 per cent; house: cut to 11 1/2 per cent;
senate Republicans: cut to 12 1/2 per cent; senate Democrats: cut to 11 1/2 per cent.

Tax on small corporations:
Present law: Tax of 13 1/2 per cent; house: adopt graduated in-tax starting at 5 per cent on $7,000
and ending with 11 1/2 per cent
above $15,000; senate Republicans:
apply 12 1/2 to all; senate Democrats: adopted house plan. All three agreed to increase exemptions from $2,000 to $3,000.

Surtaxes on incomes:
Present law: Graduated tax;
house: no change; Senate Republicans and senate Democrats voted a $25,000,000 slash on brackets between $12,000 and $75,000 but with different schedules.

Present law: graduated tax in which states share up to 80 per cent; house, and both senate plans retain it.

Admission taxes:
Present law: 10 per cent on tickets above 5 cents; house: raised the exemptions to $1; senate Republicans: raised exemptions to $2;
senate Democrats: repealed the tax entirely.

Tax on prizefights:
Present law: 10 per cent of ticket value; house: placed 25 per cent tax on tickets above $5; senate Republicans: retained 10 per cent;
senate Democrats: adopted the
tax entirely.

Automobile taxes:
Present law: 3 per cent of selling price; house and both senate groups repealed the tax.

Capital stock tax:
Present law: two cents per $100;
house: cut tax to one cent; senate Republicans: retained two-cent tax;
senate Democrats: cut to one cent.

Tax on club dues:
Present law: tax of 10 per cent;
house: reduced to 5 per cent; senate Republicans: retain 10 per cent;
senate Democrats: cut to 1 per cent.

Produce exchange sales tax:
Present law: tax of one cent on sales; house: repealed tax; senate Republicans: retain tax; senate
Democrats: repeal tax.

The house, and both senate plans
repeal the tax on cereal beverages while slashing the tax on wines to conform with lower tax on distilled spirits. This $1,000,000 slash was opposed by the treasury.

Numerous administrative changes were incorporated in the new senate bill and these met with approval of both Republicans and Democrats.

FLYING CHIEF KILLED

ROME, April 27.—Gen. Guidotti, chief of staff of the Italian air force, was killed here this morning when a plane crashed.

YOUNGEST OFFICER OF D. A. R.

Mrs. Brooke Gwathmey White, Jr., of Florida, elected a vice president general of the national society, Daughters of the American Revolution, is believed the youngest woman ever to hold as high an office in the society. Elected at the convention of the organization in Washington, D. C., Mrs. White has made 22 speeches for national defense in the past three months.

Points To Coincidence Between Announcement And Senate Debate—Minister Reports Nothing
But Rumors Heard.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—Although fifteen days have passed since the reported seizure of La Luz mine in Nicaragua and six days since the announcement of the seizure, the senate committee in New York, no confirmatory intelligence has been received by the state department from either Minister Charles C. Eberhardt, at Managua, or naval or marine corps commanders in Nicaragua.

The coincidence of the reported seizure at the exact moment the senate was scheduled to begin consideration of a proposal to curb the president's authority to direct American forces into foreign territory is described by Senator Norris (R) of Nebraska, as "queer"
and "amazing."

Norris has twice demanded on the senate floor that James Gilmore Fletcher, president of La Luz
and Los Angeles Mining Company, who announced the seizure last Saturday, be summoned before the senate foreign relations committee
to disclose the basis of his reports.

The state department has wired Minister Eberhardt twice for information since Fletcher, a brother of Henry P. Fletcher, American ambassador at Rome and former undersecretary of state, announced the mine seizure last Saturday.

In each case, Eberhardt replied that nothing more substantial than
"rumors" were available.

No official comment upon the situation was available at the state department, although Fletcher had conferred with Secretary Kellogg
over long distance telephone Monday, and was reported to have visited Washington on Tuesday. He did not see officials at the state to recommit the bill.

ARMY WILL SHOCK FLYS TO DEATH

WASHINGTON, April 27.—The army is going to join the "swat-the-fly" movement this spring in a large way—with all modern improvements.

Quartermaster General B. F.
Cheatham today approved experimental tests of a commercial electrical device to be attached to screen doors which will shock every alighting fly to death immediately.

Only a small current is required, so that no danger or inconvenience to humans is involved. War department studies reveal that the greatest fly menace is in screen doors of mess kitchens, commissary store houses and company canteens. With the electrocution devices placed at strategic points it is expected that the early spring death rate in the fly kingdom will be so heavy,
that if summer comes the swatters may be beaten into plough shares, or something.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—Mrs.
Louise Reeve Hoover, 50, wife of the president of the National Savings and Trust Company, shot and killed herself in her apartment
here late yesterday.

Her body was discovered by her husband, Wm. D. Hoover, when he went to her room. She had been in ill health for some time, he said,
and recently had undergone an operation.

After a run of about 1,000 feet
the Ford took the air easily. It began to climb at once, meanwhile traveling in a westerly direction.
It climbed steadily, clearing the mountains to the west of the lake.
Soon it was lost to view, but in five minutes it reappeared and circled over the airfield apparently waiting for Chamberlain to hop off.

Then Balchen swung to the south flying at an altitude of about 2,900 feet.

Mechanics started the motor of the Fairchild and the Ford came swinging back again "loafing"
overhead while its escort was started down the runway. In a few minutes Chamberlain took off easily and gracefully and both planes leaped southward and quickly were out of sight.

Major Fitzmaurice flatly denied this morning that he had any intention of returning to Greene-land within ten days to get the Bremen out of its isolation.

FRIENDS FILE PAS- BENNETT'S BIER IN FLYER'S HOME TOWN

Special Train Will Carry Navy Flyer To Washington.

NEW YORK, April 27.—On an army caisson draped with the Stars and Stripes, the body of Floyd Bennett was borne today from the Grand Central Depot to the Seventy-
First Regiment Armory.
There, for one hour, the people of his home town—men, women and children—filed slowly past the flag-draped bier.

Burial, with high military and naval honors, is to take place this afternoon at the Arlington National Cemetery
where so many of the nation's heroes have been laid to rest.

And while the funeral procession
was being halted for New York City's homage, the three men for whom Bennett died—Bismarck, Koehl and Von Huenefeldt—were whirling overhead for Washington
to attend the funeral.

The body arrived on a special car. Aboard the train was the grief-stricken widow, Mrs. Cora Bennett, and the dead flyer's bosom friend, Commander Richard E.
Byrd. It was with Byrd that Bennett achieved his greatest fame—
a flight to the north pole.

The funeral procession moved slowly from the depot to the armory. On each side of the army caisson which bore the body marched eight armed soldiers and eight armed sailors in uniform. They were followed by one full company of the Seventy-first Regiment, National Guard, a company of the Sixteenth Infantry and about fifty uniformed sailors from the Brooklyn navy yard.

Mrs. Bennett and Byrd left immediately for the Baltimore hotel
where they were to remain until after the public paid its respects at the armory. At 9 o'clock, the doors of the armory were barred to the public and the room in which the coffin lay was reserved for a private service.

Four escalators from the Rockaway Point naval air station dropped floral tributes over the procession. Flags which would have greeted Bennett if he had lived to pilot the Bremen flyer back from Greenland Island were at half mast throughout the day.

A few minutes after eight o'clock
the cortege arrived at the Armory.
The body was taken to the private room of Colonel Walter Allen De Lamar, commanding officer of the Seventy-first Regiment, National Guard, where the coffin was decorated with flowers from many friends, a particularly large bou-quet having been sent by the mayor's committee. Then the public was admitted.

The casket, placed upon a cata-falque, was all but concealed by the high-banked flowers, tributes
from the city of New York, from the federal government, the Brooklyn navy yard, many flyers who had known Bennett, and friends.

Rich and poor alike filed past
the casket where Bennett, arrayed
in the unsplendid and drab flying suit in which he flew to his death, lay. There working girls and society women, policemen and bankers, day laborers and high salaried professional men, actresses
and housewives—people of every walk of life.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—Arrangements were being made for the capital's most impressive military funeral since that for Leonard Wood, with the arrival today of the remains of Floyd Bennett, U.
S. N., whose heroic death while on a daring errand of relief, caused world-wide sorrow.

The body was scheduled to arrive at 3 p. m. today and will be taken at once to Arlington National Cemetery, under naval escort,
to be buried in a plot close to that of Admiral Perry, arctic trail blazer, whose exploits in the frozen wasteland were so long the inspiration of the dauntless aviator.

PATERSON, N. J., April 27.—
Two firemen were killed and twelve injured today in a fire
in Lynn's Department Store building here when an explosion caused a floor to collapse.
One of the dead firemen's body was recovered.

The dead firemen were Marinus Baker and Edward Tribbe.

KILLED IN QUARREL

COLUMBUS, O., April 27.—Funeral arrangements are being made for Harry Hartman, 35, today who was instantly killed late yesterday when a pistol discharged during a tussle with his wife.

Hartman intended to kill his wife according to police.

Mrs. Hartman was exonerated.

SMALL CITY KIDNAPED BY ITS

AVERVILLE, Ill., April 27.—This little city of Averyville, population 5,000, was tired of being Averyville. And that's the why of this dispatch.

In a moment of thoughtfulness (the anti-annexationists insist thoughtfulness) Averyville decided to join big Peoria, adjoining. Peoria, joyful of increasing its population, voted Averyville in with gusto and a huge majority. Then the fireworks began.

First place, a part of Averyville—a little less than the majority—was bitterly opposed to annexation. This group was headed by C. W. Anderson, mayor of the place, who naturally desired to keep his place and salary. When, therefore, Peoria sent its officials to take formal possession of the city records, Anderson objected. He refused the combination to the safe holding the documents.

An iron worker was pressed into service. He, being a loyal Averyville, refused. Another, with no qualms of conscience, applied an oxyhydrogen flame, and removed the offending door of the safe in yegg-like manner. The city records were taken.

Would You Believe It?
But Averyville was not to lose its fair name yet. Borrowing election equipment from East Peoria, it proceeded to hold school board elections. And the iron-hearted Peoria police force confiscated the ballots, destroying the polls, declaring them illegal. Several persons were thrown into jail, including his honor the mayor, but they were later released on good behavior.

The climax came when police chief of Averyville, T. O. Roseberry, was arrested for impersonating an officer. He was found exercising his doubtful authority by walking the streets, wearing a uniform and a cap, and swinging a billy. Two Peoria policemen did the work, bringing him to the Peoria jail.

Here they found he was carrying a weapon. Naughty, naughty. So they're debating whether or not to charge him with carrying concealed weapons or not.

More rain and no relief in sight!

Tender, Aching,
Swollen Feet

In Just Five Minutes Those Sore, Tender, Aching Feet Get Amazing Relief

You probably feel like a lot of other people that about all you can do is dust some powder in your shoes or give your feet a special foot bath and let it go at that, but don't be foolish. Make up your mind today that you are going to give your feet a real chance to get well.

Go to Sayre's Drug Store or any other good drugstore today and get an original bottle of Moore's Emerald Oil.

The very first application will give you relief and a few short treatments will thoroughly convince you that by sticking faithfully to it for a short while your foot troubles will be a thing of the past.

Don't expect a single bottle to it all at once but one bottle we know will show you beyond all question that you have at last discovered the way to solid foot comfort.

Remember that Moore's Emerald Oil is a clean, powerful, penetrating Antiseptic Oil that does not stain or leave a greasy residue and that it must give complete satisfaction or your money cheerfully refunded.

Put Hog Raising on a Sound Basis

The corner stone of the whole hog-raising business is the brood sow. What are you doing to help her produce a fine, healthy litter of pigs, this spring—next fall?

Feed is mighty important, especially during the periods of gestation and nursing, when the mother must nourish her babies as well as herself.

And when it comes to feed for hogs—especially for brood sows—you can't equal Tuxedo Hog Ration! (Thousands of successful hog raisers say so.)

Your brood sows will do better, your baby pigs will do better and YOU will do better when you feed them Tuxedo Hog Ration—the feed that makes bone, blood, flesh and energy.

Secure your supply from any of the dealers named below—and get a new thrill out of this hog raising business by putting it on a sound basis.

A large number of friends attended the funeral services of Calvin Hatcher, Wednesday afternoon at Zion Baptist Church. The services were in charge of the Rev. A. L. Dooley, pastor, taking as his text, "These are those who have come through great tribulations." He preached a very forceful funeral discourse. The Rev. Mr. Howe spoke on Mr. Hatcher's broad Christian life. Rev. E. W. B. Curry of the Second Baptist Church of Springfield also made remarks.

Rev. Allen also took part in the services. Miss Ferguson very feelingly sang "There is No Death." Besides resolutions from local organizations, Mrs. Eula Kennedy read a letter of condolence from the St. John's Baptist Church, Springfield and a telegram of sympathy from Rev. G. W. Becton, pastor, who is now stationed in Jacksonville, Fla. The Masonic services were introduced by Mr. George Holland, of Springfield, secretary of the Ohio State Masonic Home, Urbana, Ohio, where Mr. Hatcher had been a resident for about a year. Mr. Holland preceded his beginning of the ritualistic services of the Masonic Order by speaking of how Mr. Hatcher had endeared himself to the officers and inmates of the Home and they to him.

Many friends from surrounding towns were in attendance. There will be a social at the home of Mrs. R. J. Watkins, E. Main St., Saturday evening for the benefit of the primary department of the St. John's A. M. E. Sunday School. Supper ready to serve at 5 o'clock.

The "Allen Stars" will have a social at the home of Mrs. Emma Robinson, E. Market St., Saturday evening. Supper served at 5 o'clock. Florence Lindsey, president; Mary Hicks, secretary.

The Sunday School club of Middle Run Baptist Church will meet at the home of Mr. J. T. Rountree, E. Third St., Friday evening at 7:30.

The following out-of-town persons attended the funeral services of C. B. Hatcher Wednesday: Dr. W. T. Burton and daughter, Gladys; Mrs. Edith Finnet, Mrs. Trella Gray, Mrs. Flossie Ford, and daughter, Sarah Emma, Mrs. Ella Scott, Rev. E. W. B. Curry, all of Springfield, O.; and Mr. George Holland, secretary of Ohio State Masonic Home, Urbana, O.

Mr. Harold Hatcher, of Detroit, Mich., who was called here on account of the death of his father, Mr. C. B. Hatcher, left for his home Friday morning.

A large number of friends attend- ed the funeral services of Calvin Hatcher, Wednesday afternoon at Zion Baptist Church. The services were in charge of the Rev. A. L. Dooley, pastor, taking as his text, "These are those who have come through great tribulations." He preached a very forceful funeral discourse. The Rev. Mr. Howe spoke on Mr. Hatcher's broad Christian life. Rev. E. W. B. Curry of the Second Baptist Church of Springfield also made remarks. Rev. Allen also took part in the services. Miss Ferguson very feelingly sang "There is No Death." Besides resolutions from local organizations, Mrs. Ella Kennedy read a letter of condolence from the St. John's Baptist Church, Springfield and a telegram of sym- pathy from Rev. G. W. Repton, ex- pastor, who is now stationed in Jacksonville, Fla. The Masonic services were introduced by Mr. George Holland, of Springfield, sec- retary of the Ohio State Masonic Home, Urbana, Ohio, where Mr. Hatcher had been a resident for about a year. Mr. Holland pre- ced- ed his beginning of the ritualistic services of the Masonic Order by speaking of how Mr. Hatcher had endeared himself to the officers and inmates of the Home and they to him.

Many friends from surrounding towns were in attendance.

There will be a social at the home of Mrs. R. J. Watkins, E.

Main St., Saturday evening for the benefit of the primary department of the St. John's A. M. E. Sunday School. Supper ready to serve at 5 o'clock.

The "Allen Star's" will have a social at the home of Mrs. Emma Robinson, E. Market St., Saturday evening. Supper served at 5 o'clock. Florence Lindsey, presi- dent; Mary Hicks, secretary.

The Sunday School club of Mid- dle Run Baptist Church will meet at the home of Mr. J. T. Rountree, E. Third St., Friday evening at 7:30.

The following out-of-town per- sons attended the funeral services of C. B. Hatcher Wednesday: Dr. W. T. Burton and daughter, Gladys; Mrs. Edith Finney, Mrs. Trella Gray, Mrs. Flossie Ford, and daugh- ter, Sarah Emma, Mrs. Ella Scott, Rev. E. W. B. Curry, all of Spring- field, O.; and Mr. George Holland, secretary of Ohio State Masonic Home, Urbana, O.

Mr. Harold Hatcher, of Detroit,

Mich., who was called here on ac- count of the death of his father, Mr. C. B. Hatcher, left for his home Friday morning.

Put Hog Raising on a Sound Basis

The corner stone of the whole hog-raising business is the brood sow. What are you doing to help her produce a fine, healthy litter of pigs, this spring—next fall?

Feed is mighty important, especially during the periods of gestation and nursing, when the mother must nourish her babies as well as herself.

And when it comes to feed for hogs—especially for brood sows—you can't equal Tuxedo Hog Ration! (Thousands of successful hog raisers say so.)

Your brood sows will do better, your baby pigs will do better and YOU will do better when you feed them Tuxedo Hog Ration—the feed that makes bone, blood, flesh and energy.

Secure your supply from any of the dealers named below—and get a new thrill out of this hog raising business by putting it on a sound basis.

THE NEW KONJOLA MEDICINE Praised BY NOTED DOCTOR

Ohio Physician Strongly Indorses New Compound; Konjola Man Busy At The Gallaher Drug Store

DR. GEO. H. SPRIGGS
the Gallaher Drug Store, 33 East Main St., Xenia.

The report referred to was issued by Dr. Geo. H. Spriggs, 2315 Inwood Place, Cincinnati, who has gained fame because of his distinguished service as Major in the World War. Dr. Spriggs, who has an Edinburgh Degree, stated that this surprising Konjola medicine so completely showed its power in so many cases of suffering that he wants everybody to know about it. He gave a detailed report of the work of Konjola and also offered his photograph for publication.

"By helping Nature," said this prominent doctor, "Konjola is by far above the older known remedies. I first tried it in a case of kidney trouble—getting up frequently at night. The man who took it came back the fourth day and said that he had slept all through the previous night. I learned of a man who hadn't left his home in over two years. He had been crippled with rheumatism, swollen joints, stiff, aching limbs and agonizing pains. He completed a treatment of Konjola and said he walked a distance of nearly a mile. This, of course, was about three weeks after he completed Konjola. From this case I believed this medicine would do wonders with neuritis, and I recommended it to a lady who said she had tried everything for this suffering. She had tried mineral baths, electric treatments and medicine upon medicine. It took only five weeks of Konjola to completely end her troubles, and she has never had a return of the neuritis pains.

"I next treated a woman who had been in bed three days out of five, every week, suffering intense stomach pains, caused by gas bloating and sourness, which had been getting worse in years past. She said in five years she had spent several thousand dollars on her health. She took Konjola and began to eat heartily of many things that she hadn't dared to eat in years. The food agreed with her, and she continued Konjola a few weeks longer and gained nearly twenty pounds. She says she feels ten years younger and her appearance certainly shows it. I had another lady tell me that Konjola did more good than four years of special dieting. She took Konjola for her nervousness and a general run-down system.

"When Konjola is taken into the human system, there are a score or more different herbal extracts and each one of them has a certain duty to perform on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. The cleansing and invigorating of these organs is what seems to bring such amazing relief and new feelings of health. I heartily recommend it and consider it a real Godsend to those who suffer ill-health."

The Konjola Man is at the Gallaher drug store, 33 East Main St., Xenia's busiest downtown section where he is daily meeting the public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Free samples given. —Adv.

CHOIR DANCE WELL ATTENDED THURSDAY

So successful was the dancing party, entertained by the men of the Christ Episcopal Church choir at the Parish House, Thursday evening, that it is hoped to repeat the affair in about six weeks.

Sixty-five couples attended the party. The attractive parish house was decked with ferns and other potted plants. The patrons of the evening were Mr. and Mrs. I. S. Dines, the Rev. and Mrs. C. O. Nybladh, Mrs. James M. Carper and the Misses Sarah and Eleanor Williams.

The evening's success was due in a large measure to the excellent music furnished by Paul Klienke's Orchestra from Columbus. The five-piece organization, which has played at the Port Hayes Hotel, Columbus, this winter, furnished a splendid program.

Punch was served during the evening and cake and coffee refreshed the guests later. Several novelty numbers were introduced, including several circles led by Mr. Harry Williams.

A number of out-of-town guests were entertained, including a large group from Yellow Springs. Mr. Fred Flynn was chairman of the host committee in charge of the affair.

MAU MAY PADLOCK FOREST GABLES

DAYTON, O., April 27.—Padlock proceedings seeking the permanent closing of the Forest Gables Dance and Supper Club at the north edge of Dayton, were filed in United States District Court here this morning.

The bill in equity was signed by Haveth E. Mau, United States district attorney.

As a result of a federal raid on the resort April 14, it is charged that liquor is kept there and that guests are supplied with other apertunances for liquor consumption. Regular "soup and fish" methods were employed by the dry raiders, who charge that at the time of the raid, 300 guests were present, dancing, dining and also winning. Forty bottles of liquor were taken from the customers. They were then permitted to go home. No arrests were made.

GLIMPSES OF OHIO HISTORY

THE BRITISH SOLDIER WHO BECAME AN AMERICAN GENERAL

AMERICAN history is rich in the achievements of youth. A Scotch boy was still in his twenties when he served with distinction in the British army under Wolfe at Quebec, and shortly afterward resigned his commission and settled in Western Pennsylvania. When scarcely out of his thirties Arthur St. Clair joined the Colonial army with the rank of Colonel and performed gallant services.

As Commander-in-Chief of the United States Army he built a Fort in Southwestern Ohio, named it Fort Hamilton, and it grew to be the present City of Hamilton.

St. Clair died in obscurity and poverty, but his deeds of patriotism remain as a lamp to the feet of youth for all time.

Inseparably linked with the country's history is the development of her industries. And in this, youth also claims its liberal share of honor. At innumerable Loreco Service Stations dotting the territory made famous by the gallant Scotchman young men have gained the enviable reputation of Smiling Loreco Salesmen.

In addition to Loreco Gasoline and Motor Oil, most Loreco Stations also carry Veedol Motor Oil.

Mrs. A. J. Lane, High St., returned Wednesday morning from Middletown, Del., where she spent ten days with her son and daughter-in-law. Mr. and Mrs. Myron Lane, Mr. Lane's marriage to Mrs. Margaret Weise, of Middletown, took place last December 11 in that city. He is employed as bookkeeper for the Rudney Stockyards.

Messrs. Clarence and Kenneth Copey, Muncie, Ind., are the guests this week of their uncle, Mr. R. O. Copey, N. Detroit St. They came to attend the graduation of their cousin, Miss Dorothy Kline from Bowersville High School and to attend the Caesar Creek High School class play Thursday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Schwab, W. Market St., are announcing the birth of a daughter, Thursday. Mrs. Schwab was before marriage Miss Rosanna Woolery.

Miss Violet Flefot, Springfield, underwent a tonsil operation in this city, Friday.

Mrs. Fred Fugate and infant daughter, left the Espey Hospital, Thursday for their home on W. Second St.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Shook, Yellow Springs, are announcing the birth of a nine-pound daughter, Thursday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Alexander, near Yellow Springs, are the parents of a daughter, born Thursday night.

A daughter, Vera Jean, was born Thursday to Mr. and Mrs. Alva Mustard, S. Columbus St.

Mr. and Mrs. William Peterson, S. Detroit St., are spending the week end in Detroit, Mich., with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Fenton.

Brig. Gen. and Mrs. William E. Gilmore, Fairfield, are expected home the middle of next week, after spending the past several weeks in Washington, D. C.

MAU MAY PADLOCK FOREST CABLES

DAYTON, O., April 27.—Padlock proceedings seeking the permanent closing of the Forest Gables Dance and Supper Club at the north edge of Dayton, were filed in United States District Court here this morning.

The bill in equity was signed by Haveth E. Mau, United States district attorney.

As a result of a federal raid on the resort April 14, it is charged that liquor is kept there and that guests are supplied with other amusements for liquor consumption. Regular "soup and fish" methods were employed by the dry raiders, who charge that at the time of the raid, 200 guests were present, dancing, dining and also winning. Forty bottles of liquor were taken from the customers. They were then permitted to go home. No arrests were made.

GLIMPSES OF OHIO HISTORY

He was Commander in Chief of the United States Army and built a Fort which became an important Ohio city, yet he died alone and forgotten.

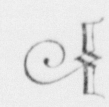

THE BRITISH SOLDIER WHO BECAME AN AMERICAN GENERAL

AMERICAN history is rich in the achievements of youth. A Scotch boy was still in his twenties when he served with distinction in the British army under Wolfe at Quebec, and shortly afterward resigned his commission and settled in Western Pennsylvania. When scarcely out of his thirties Arthur St. Clair joined the Colonial army with the rank of Colonel and performed gallant services.

As Commander-in-Chief of the United States Army he built a Fort in Southwestern Ohio, named it Fort Hamilton, and it grew to be the present City of Hamilton.

St. Clair died in obscurity and poverty, but his deeds of patriotism remain as a lamp to the feet of youth for all time.

Inseparably linked with the country's history is the development of her industries. And in this, youth also claims its liberal share of honor. At innumerable Loreco Service Stations dotting the territory made famous by the gallant Scotchman young men have gained the enviable reputation of Smiling Loreco Salesmen.

In addition to Loreco Gasoline and Motor Oil, most Loreco Stations also carry Veedol Motor Oil.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

BE STEADFAST—Hear me now therefore, O ye children, and depart not from the words of my mouth.—Prov. 5:7.

TRANSFORMING A NATION

A mild-spoken little man of 63, who has calmly discarded the drowsy business traditions and flamboyant tactics of Latin America, who works 15 hours a day and keeps business appointments after midnight, who conscripts an army not for war, but for road-building!

This is the picture of Augusto B. Leguia, three times president of Peru and a figure whose significance in South America matches that of Mussolini in Europe, as presented by Ignatius Phayre, correspondent of The North American Review, who has just returned from a first-hand study of South American conditions.

"Today's most astounding symbol in a continent of stupendous riches is undoubtedly Peru," asserts Mr. Phayre. "The most romantic of all the old Spanish colonies has become the most practical. Peace and prosperity prevail. Foreign capital is pouring into the land of the Incas. And this new Peru is the creation of one man, Leguia!"

Leguia, still a little-known figure outside of his own continent, has rehabilitated Peru by a program unprecedented in Latin America. Installing foreign experts, largely from the United States, as supervisors, he has built roads, railways, schools and irrigation systems, promoted agriculture, stock breeding and industries, revitalized cities and eradicated disease on a scale inconceivable to his contemporaries.

Leguia's career surpasses that of probably any other national figure in its drama. An insurance agent 25 years ago, he was made treasurer of Lima, rose to the presidency in a series of dramatic steps, then barely escaped with his life in the 1913 revolution instigated by a group of old and wealthy families who had held Peru in a feudal grasp for generations.

CALENDAR REFORM GAINS FAVOR

The simplified calendar of 13 months of 28 days has been officially endorsed by many business groups. The Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York has approved of the calling of an international conference on calendar rectification, and various state and local business organizations have commended the 13-months calendar by formal resolutions.

The Canadian Government Advisory and Technical Commission states that it "endorses the principle of calendar reform and prefers 13 equal months to the year, 28 days to a month of four weeks."

Supplementing the work of the National Committee on Calendar Simplification various organizations, among them the American Bar Association and the National Academy of Sciences, have appointed a special committee to study the subject and report.

The National Association of Cost Accountants, with a membership of 4,300, has officially endorsed the 13-months-of-28-days proposal and promised further cooperation in securing its adoption. A canvass which it conducted of its membership showed 90 per cent of the responses in favor of the 13-period system.

A national committee for the United States, to deal with the simplifying of the calendar, is now being formed, consisting of government and non-government representation. This is the result of the League of Nations' invitation to all nations including the United States through Secretary of State Kellogg. For the government group the members are designated by the Secretaries of the Departments especially interested.

The findings of the National Committee will be submitted to the Secretary of State for his information in connection with his reply to the League of Nations communication.

There are many obvious advantages in calendar reform. Like standard time reform, and like federal reserve system reform, and other great reforms, once they are realized, we marvel that we could have endured the previous condition so long.

NEWSPAPERS, SCHOOLBOOKS

Newspapers have been called the schoolbook of the adult. The best newspapers are schoolbooks, and good ones, if readers will take pains to read the best things in them. Newspapers give coverage on the day's events. Some of the matter is, of course, trivial. Some is merely entertaining. There is, however, in every sound, well-edited paper much reading matter which is instructive and important. Readers too often overlook all that is worth while and give their brief attention only to that which is trivial or merely entertaining.

THOUGHT

Pavlov, smart Russian scientist, has given years of study and experiment to prove that thinking, in human beings or in lower animals, is merely a mechanical process. A monkey is taught to associate food with a red disk. When the red disk is shown he gets off his perch to be fed. When blue disk is shown, he pays no attention. A child lies under a chute, from which candy is dropped into his mouth every time a bulb on his wrist is inflated. After a few trials the scientist finds the child opens his mouth whenever the bulb is inflated, whether there is any candy or not.

Well, that's interesting. So are many other experiments. There is something of mechanical process in thought. But there is something else which the scientist has not yet explained. Why do some men direct their thoughts in certain evil and dangerous channels, while others direct their thoughts toward good things? After all, we have the right and the capacity to think, whatever the process.

The Diary of a New Yorker

by CLARK KINNAIRD

NEW YORK, April 27.—Manhattan is wet, but Montreal is wetter, and up there liquor is cheaper and safer. So every Friday afternoon at 4, a line begins to form in Grand Central station before the gate of the train from which the Montreal excursion departs at 7:30. By 7 there is a jovial mob of persons, anxious to spend two nights—one going and one coming, hunched in uncomfortable day coaches in order to drink in freedom. Most of the excursionists are emigrant Canadians taking advantage of the cheap round trip fare to visit home folks briefly, but the majority of the travelers take the trip as temporary refugees from prohibition.

Just as excursions to Pittsburgh, or Cincinnati, or Atlantic City, or Washington, or New York, are events in the lives of hinterlanders so are such trips to Niagara Falls, or Montreal, or Boston, memorable occasions to New Yorkers. The folks who come into New York each week end to view Grant's Tomb and lesser sights of the Biggest City are counterbalanced by those who go forth from Manhattan's environs to see such wonders as cows and trees and (in Montreal) bars in which you can drink without fear of blindness.

New York is the place the freak fortunes are made. There is the man, now in the Social Register, who mined millions from theatre program advertising. There is the man who got rich from the syndicate that has the hat-checking concession in most of the restaurants. And there is the man who achieved Park Avenue through ownership of nickel-in-the-slot musical instruments he placed in hundreds of speakeasies and other joy palaces. And there also is the man who is retiring and traveling around the world on the interest of the money he amassed in hot-dog stands.

It isn't much fun to go to the circus here. One misses with a pang the wilting sun, the sawdust, the wobbly seats, the odor of elephants and camels, the appetizing whiffs of the cookhouse, the tents. The Greatest Show on Earth is presented here in Madison Square Garden, and doesn't, in such a setting, provide any more thrills than the flower show and the machinery exposition, which play the same game.

Handling People at Hotels

More imagination is required in conducting a successful big hotel than in almost any other line of business. Most people seem to exhibit a greater variety of this and characteristics at a hotel than elsewhere. In the first place, they desire to live better at a hotel, in many respects, and have more done for them, than they would at home. They realize that they are buying, not only food and lodging but service, and there is likely to be a variety of interpretations among guests as to what really good service is.

A man at a hotel alone does not behave like a man who is accompanied by his wife. The one with the wife along appears to be more complaining, and more difficult to please. This is largely because the wife, being in the hotel more than her husband in the course of the day, and knowing more about the little details of good housekeeping, may notice things that would escape her husband's attention. Then she tells him about them—perhaps in an if you're a real man you'll have this remedied tone—and he feels duty bound to go to the desk and enlighten the clerk about the inferiority of the service. Furthermore, a woman is often more insistent than a man on getting full value.

Nearly all well-managed hotels at the present time make special appeal to women; moreover hotels, have grown better and more homelike in proportion to the number of women guests attracted within their doors. And the hotel that attracts women is also fairly certain to attract men. If somebody could run a mammoth hotel for men only, and keep it filled to capacity, it should be the most profitable hostelry in the country, because men are about a hotel less than women and require much less waiting on, which means fewer employees. Yet how many successful large stag hotels have you ever heard of? When you see a stag hotel it is altogether likely to be rather small and unpretentious. The answer is that the average man, even though he has no notion of being in the company of any woman in particular, nevertheless prefers to be at a hotel where he sees women about him.

PRECISELY

"Fare!" The passenger paid no attention to the conductor's demand. "Fare, please!" Still the passenger was oblivious. "By the conductor, I imply no reference to the state of the weather, nor vouchsafed by this philanthropic company. I merely allude in a even to the quality of the service manner perhaps lacking in delicacy, but not in consciousness, to the monetary obligation incurred by your presence in this vehicle and suggest that you liquidate." And then the passenger woke up and produced his nickel.

How to Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

To Counteract the effects of Winter

Today we will go back to the first day's inventory and consider the actual reparation process. Beginning with texture, the first thing your skin will need is a partial abstinence from water—a total abstinence from soap, and the regular use of a very fine cleansing and massage cream.

Soap and water, you know, make the skin dry and sensitive—so banish them for alternate days—and should the sensitive persist, remember that you can depend on a light cleansing cream for absolute immaculateness.

What will the cleansing cream do? First it will lubricate the dried-out tissues—it will restore humidity to the skin—and then it will be primarily a cleanser, it will penetrate deep into the pores and remove all the dust and grime and oil secretions which are choking pore activity.

Now let us consider the first faint line around the eyes—red-dried eyelids and windburning eyes—I can think of nothing so self-satisfying as the consciousness of clear, pretty eyes, and I can appreciate so well the beauty of them, that the eye treatment I am going to recommend is a matter of eternal gratification to me. It is so simple and so effective.

First wash your eyes daily; or twice-a-day is even better; with soft cotton compresses wrung out of hot salt water—a pinch of salt to a teaspoonful of water—not too hot, of course, but as warm as you can stand it.

Hook Worm and Sand Worm. Mrs. W. has a nice living in Oklahoma who has what doctors there term sand worm in her foot. She has developed a slight limp. Is sand worm the same as hook worm?

I can't find anything about sand worm in any of my textbooks, Mrs. W., whether that name is used in certain localities for hook worm or not. While hook worm does occur occasionally in the temperate zones, it is mostly confined to the southern states where the climate is warm and humid.

However, if your niece had hook worm there would be a serious anemia and intestinal disturbances as well as the local skin disturbance. Hook worm has been found to gain its entrance into the body through the feet and hands when they come in contact with a soil which contains hook worm larvae. It is a very serious disease; it is curable, but the treatment is not without danger, so it has to be very carefully given and supervised.

Leaky Heart Valves. I am 17 years old and have leaking heart valves. Does one with this trouble necessarily have a poor complexion? Must I weigh more than the average person? Will you write an article on leaky valves, dealing with exercise, diet and symptoms? Please do tell me to visit a doctor as it is impossible for me to do so.

"G."

You are a girl, G., I know, or else you wouldn't ask about your complexion.

No, leaky heart valves do not necessarily mean a poor complexion, nor do they necessarily mean poor health. There is a type of "leaky" valves in young adults and children which seems to disappear as they grow older, and which apparently is not abnormal. There is also a type of so-called leaking valves in older adults which apparently is without any harmful effects.

Oser was fond of telling his medical students about a young woman who came to him with leaking valves when he was a young doctor. He warned her that she was not to marry and have children. Twenty years or so later, a woman came to him for a general examination and in the course of the examination he told her she had leaky valves. She responded, "Yes, Doctor, you found them twenty years ago, when I was a girl, and you warned me not to marry and have children. You'll be interested to know that I have married and have six children."

Now, my dear G., what you told me not to do, I must do—that is, to tell you to see your physician, to know whether your leaky valves are serious or not, and he will give you advice as to diet and exercise and other measures to follow. The

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, April 27.—The toll bridge industry's in danger. A young industry, already it's under attack.

Given a few more years, to mature and was powerful, it could fight back like fury, and quite likely come out on top.

As yet it's hardly fit to stand up under the lambasting it's getting from such big bullies as Senator Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, in the upper house of congress, and Representative John J. Cochran of Missouri, in the lower one.

It ought to have been protected sooner. Now it's liable to succumb.

According to Barkley and Cochran, it's like this—

This country's full of "navigable streams"—so called. A stream you can barely float, your hat in may be "navigable." If congress says it is, that's what it is—just as anything above half of one per cent's intoxicating.

With the multiplication of automobile roads, there'll have to be more and more ways, all the time, for traffic to cross these water courses.

But only congress can authorize the spanning of a "navigable stream."

So the up-to-date promoter's latest stock in trade is a big batch of congressional franchises for toll bridges—the kind you have to pay to ride over, mind—across "navigable streams."

The promoter isn't a bridge builder. All he does is to keep his eyes open for good bridge sites—places where it's evident traffic will be brisk soon—and as often as he sees one, he asks congress for a franchise. Congress has been pretty accommodating about it hitherto. A nice bunch of franchisees on hand, the promoter simply passed 'em around.

Perhaps sometimes he really encourages a little bridge building, but not always. Occasionally he actually holds up a bridge which some community wants to build—maybe to 'free' until it's settled with him for his franchise.

A few slick individuals started the game, on a small scale. Now big companies are being incorporated, to go into it wholesale.

They toll not, neither do they spin, but Barkley and Cochran say they're making a ridiculous amount of money on no investment whatever, and will be raking it in in millions before long, unless a stop's put to their "graft," as the Missouri representative rather harshly calls it.

Besides, it's complained that they threaten to put a serious crimp into automobile travel if they're allowed to run rampant.

Of course the toll folks declare they're being done a perfectly scandalous injustice.

They insist they're developing our national road system. Unluckily for them, they haven't been at it long enough for the public to have become accustomed to toll bridges as a matter of course. The average motorist still hollers when he's maledicting a very direct form of taxation, too, and correspondingly irritating.

Probably that's why Barkley and Cochran appear to have a lot of popular support in their crusade, instead of being generally considered a pair of communists, as the franchise people accuse them of.

Living and Loving

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

LIFE'S TRAGEDIES

Did you ever look at a roomful of people and wonder what would be revealed if you could see into their lives from their own viewpoint? They look fairly placid, but if you could see the disappointments and headaches these same people suffer every day—

the regrets for the past, the fears for the future, you would know that all life's tragedies are not told on the front pages of newspapers, but are enacted in apparently peaceful homes. Probably the girl who writes the following home life, seems to have a happy home life, but read what she says:

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I am not writing you this letter because I just feel blue but it is mostly because I feel unhappy. I sometimes feel like ending it all because life is so miserable. I have not kept company with a man for three years, and I long for company but mother doesn't consider it, because she never had any romance at all. I am tied down with the housework and cooking. I kept busy all the time. It is hard to take all the slams from my two married sisters. One of them has a little girl. The other has no children. She puts mother up to treat me mean, and I must knuckle down to all my folks. When I don't jump when they whistle I get scolded. They all tell me what to do. You don't know how hard it is to take it all. I am in my twenties and know I can take care of myself. If mother was stronger I would leave home. What would you do if you were me? I don't get any for keeping house. Sometimes I get fifty cents a week, and a girl of my age should get at least a little more. I just can't stand it much longer.

"Heartbroken Miss." First, my dear, don't be so down. There is something about a human nature that makes it want to torment a person who goes about with a sad countenance when other can't see the cause. Cheer up. There is always a way out of everything, and you are much more likely to find it if you keep bright, hopeful and alert. Nothing would do you more good than to away from home and go to work. You would either grow more independent and self-respecting or you would appreciate the comforts you enjoy at home but which you even not see because you have nothing with which to compare them. Couldn't your sisters look after your mother for a time if you took a position? Or perhaps some other arrangements could be made. If not, get out to church to young people's meetings, etc. You are of age, you know; you don't have to be a slave.

Don't think that you are going to end your life. Make up your mind that the best is before you and that you are going to find it. Your mother and sisters don't realize that you are a grown woman and are treating you like a little girl, which is often the fate of the youngest members of a family.

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I am a girl of 17, and am in love with a boy, but we broke up. Do you think he will ever come back to me? I stopped talking first; do you think I ought to talk first?" "Blue Eyes."

Surely, speak first, Blue Eyes. Then he will know you want to be friends again.

Peter's Adventure

By MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

TIME FOR BREAKFAST

Father Swift was the first to notice Peter's silence. Being a curious bird he said: "A penny for your thoughts, boy!"

"Why do call yourselves Swifts?" asked Peter. "I always thought you were Swallows."

"No, sir, we are not, and what is more, we are only distant relatives of the Swallows, although every one says we resemble them more than our first cousins the Nighthawks and the Whip-poor-wills. You might not believe it, but the Humming-birds are our cousins, too. We like the Swallows, though, and get along with them first rate."

The boy scarcely heard what Father Swift was saying. He was watching the fellow clinging to the side of the chimney. Father Swift didn't seem to be using his feet at all.

"How do you hang on?" asked Peter curiously. Swift proudly raised his head.

"I use the quills of my tail as a brace, putting them together so," replied the bird, showing Peter as best he could. "My feet are too weak to be of much use, but I don't need them, for my tail is the handiest thing in the world and my wings are so strong that when I am in the air I seldom perch to rest, but fly all the time. No bird that I know can outtail me. You should see me dive down this chimney. I fold my wings at my sides, as close as can be, and down I come, straight as a string. When I fly out, 'whirr' go my wings and up I soar."

"I have often seen that noise," but never knew what it was, before he could say more Chirpy Peter was deeply interested, but began to whimper: "Oh, dear me, how hungry I am!" and the four nestlings joined him.

"I am afraid you will have to excuse us, boy," said Mother Swift anxiously. "When the children begin to act like that it means we must get them something to eat quickly without another word."

"Whirr!" Out of the chimney flew Mr. and Mrs. Swift. Chirpy and his brothers and sisters paid

no more attention to their visitor. They did nothing but open wide their mouths and cry for food. So slowly the boy began his downward climb. Short as it had been, he was very glad that he had paid a visit to the Chimney Swifts.

The simplified calendar of 13 months of 28 days has been officially endorsed by many business groups. The Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York has approved of the calling of an international conference on calendar rectification, and various state and local business organizations have commended the 13-months calendar by formal resolutions.

The Canadian Government Advisory and Technical Commission states that it "endorses the principle of calendar reform and prefers 13 equal months to the year, 28 days to a month of four weeks."

Supplementing the work of the National Committee on Calendar Simplification various organizations, among them the American Bar Association and the National Academy of Sciences, have appointed a special committee to study the subject and report.

The National Association of Cost Accountants, with a membership of 4,300, has officially endorsed the 13-months-of-28-days proposal and promised further cooperation in securing its adoption. A canvass which it conducted of its membership showed 90 per cent of the responses in favor of the 13-period system.

A national committee for the United States, to deal with the simplifying of the calendar, is now being formed, consisting of government and non-government representation. This is the result of the League of Nations invitation to all nations including the United States through Secretary of State Kellogg. For the government group the members are designated by the Secretaries of the Departments especially interested.

The findings of the National Committee will be submitted to the Secretary of State for his information in connection with his reply to the League of Nations communication.

There are many obvious advantages in calendar reform. Like standard time reform, and like federal reserve system reform, and other great reforms, once they are realized, we marvel that we could have endured the previous condition so long.

NEWSPAPERS, SCHOOLBOOKS

Newspapers have been called the schoolbook of the adult. The best newspapers are schoolbooks, and good ones, if readers will take pains to read the best things in them. Newspapers give coverage on the day's events. Some of the matter is, of course, trivial. Some is merely entertaining. There is, however, in every sound, well-edited paper much reading matter which is instructive and important. Readers too often overlook all that is worth while and give their brief attention only to that which is trivial or merely entertaining.

THOUGHT

Pavlov, smart Russian scientist, has given years of study and experiment to prove that thinking, in human beings or in lower animals, is merely a mechanical process. A monkey is taught to associate food with a red disk. When the red disk is shown he gets off his perch to be fed. When blue disk is shown, he pays no attention. A child lies under a chute, from which candy is dropped into his mouth every time a bulb on his wrist is inflated. After a few trials the scientist finds the child opens his mouth whenever the bulb is inflated, whether there is any candy or not.

Well, that's interesting. So are many other experiments. There is something of mechanical process in thought. But there is something else which the scientist has not yet explained. Why do some men direct their thoughts in certain evil and dangerous channels, while others direct their thoughts toward good things? After all, we have the right and the capacity to think, whatever the process.

The Diary of a New Yorker

By CLARK KINNAIRD

NEW YORK, April 27.—Manhattan is wet, but Montreal is wetter, and up there liquor is cheaper, and safer. So every Friday afternoon at 4, a line begins to form in Grand Central station before the gate of the track from which the Montreal excursion departs at 7:30. By 7 there is a jostling mob of persons, anxious to spend two nights—one going and one coming, hunched in uncomfortable day coaches in order to drink in freedom. Most of the excursionists one sees in line are young men, some with girl companions, but a few are couples with children in arms; and here and there the observer is able to pick out a whole family of adults.

Of course, a few of the excursionists are emigrant Canadians taking advantage of the cheap round trip fare to visit homes in brief, but the majority of the travelers take the trip as temporary refugees from prohibition.

Just as excursions to Pittsburgh, or Cincinnati, or Atlantic City, or Washington, or New York, are events in the lives of hundreds of such people, so are such trips to Niagara Falls, or Montreal, or Boston, memorable occasions to New Yorkers. The folks who come into New York each week end to view Grant's Tomb and lesser sights of the Big City are not unbalanced by those who go forth from Manhattan's environs to see such wonders as cows and trees and (in Montreal) bars in which you can drink without fear of blindness.

New York is the place the freak fortunes are made. There is the man, now in the Social Register, who mined millions from the program advertising. There is the man who got rich from the syndicate that has the hat-checking concession in most of the restaurants. And there is the man who achieved Park Avenue through ownership of nickel-in-the-slot musical instruments he placed in hundreds of speakeasies and other joy palaces. And there also is the man who is retiring and traveling around the world on the interest of the money he amassed in hot-dog stands.

It isn't much fun to go to the circus here. One misses with a pang the wilting sun, the sawdust, the wobbly seats, the odor of elephants and camels, the appetizing whiffs of the cookhouse, the tents. The Greatest Show on Earth is presented here in Madison Square Garden, and doesn't, in such a setting, provide any more thrills than the flower show and the machinery exposition, which play the same place.

Handling People at Hotels

More imagination is required in conducting a hotel than in almost any other line of business. Most people seem to exhibit a greater variety of traits and characteristics at a hotel than elsewhere. In the first place, they desire to live better at a hotel, in many respects, and have more done for them, than they would at home. They realize that they are buying, not only food and lodging but service, and there is likely to be a variety of interpretations among guests as to what really good service is.

A man at a hotel alone does not behave like a man who is accompanied by his wife. The one, accompanied by the wife, appears to be more complaining, and more difficult to please. This is largely because the wife, being in the hotel more than her husband in the course of the day, and knowing more about the little details of good housekeeping, may notice things that would escape her husband's attention. Then she tells him about them—perhaps in an if you're a real man you'll have this remedied tone—and he feels duty bound to go to the desk and call the attention of the desk and cashier to the fact of the inferiority of the service. Furthermore, a woman is often more insistent than a man on getting full value.

Nearly all well-managed hotels at the present time make special appeal to women; moreover, hotels, have grown better and more homelike in proportion to the number of women guests attracted within their doors. And the hotel that attracts women is also fairly certain to attract men. If somebody could run a mammoth hotel for men only, and keep it filled to capacity, it should be the most profitable hostelry in the world, because men are about a hotel less than women and require much less waiting on, which means fewer employees. Yet how many successful stag hotels have you ever heard of? When you see a stag hotel it is altogether unlikely to be rather small and unpretentious. The answer is that the average man, even though he has no notion of being in the company of any woman in particular, nevertheless prefers to be at a hotel where he sees women about him.

PRECISELY

"Fare!" The passenger paid no attention to the conductor's demand. "Fare, please!" Still the passenger was oblivious. "By the ejaculatory term 'Fare!'" said the conductor, "I imply no reference to the state of the weather, nor vouchsafed by this philanthropic company. I merely allude to even to the quality of the service manner perhaps lacking in delicacy, but not in consciousness, to the monetary obligation incurred by your presence in this vehicle and suggest that you liquidate." And then the passenger woke up and produced his nickel.

How to Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

To Counteract the effects of Winter

Today we will go back to the first day's inventory and consider the actual reparation process. Beginning with texture, the first thing your skin will need is a partial abstinence from water—a total abstinence from soap, and the regular use of a very fine cleansing and massage cream.

Soap and water, you know, make the skin dry and sensitive—so banish them for alternate days—and should the sensitive persist, remember that you can depend on a light cleansing cream for absolute immaculate skin.

What will the cleansing cream do? First it will lubricate the dried-out tissues—it will restore humidity to the skin—and then it will penetrate deep into the pores and remove all the dust and grime and oil secretions which are choking pore activity.

Now let us consider the first faint line around the eyes—red-dented eyelids and windburning eyes—I can think of nothing so self-satisfying as the consciousness of clear, pretty eyes, and I can appreciate so well the beauty of them, that the eye treatment I am going to recommend is a matter of eternal gratification to me. It is so simple and so effective.

First wash your eyes daily; or twice-a-day is even better; with soft cotton compresses wrung out of hot salt water—a pinch of salt to a teaspoonful of water—not too hot, of course, but as warm as you can stand it.

Hook Worm and Sand Worm
Mrs. W. has a niece living in Oklahoma who has what doctors there term sand worm in her foot. She has developed a slight limp. Is sand worm the same as hook worm?

I can't find anything about sand worm in any of my textbooks, Mrs. W., whether that name is used in certain localities for hook worm or not. While hook worm does occur occasionally in the temperate zones, it is mostly confined to the southern states where the climate is warm and humid.

However, if your niece had hook worm there would be a serious anemia and intestinal disturbances as well as the local skin disturbance. Hook worm has been found to gain its entrance into the body through the feet and hands when they come in contact with a soil which contains hook worm larvae. It is a very serious disease; it is curable, but the treatment is not without danger, so it has to be very carefully given and supervised.

Leaky Heart Valves

"I am 17 years old and have leaking heart valves. Does one with this trouble necessarily have a poor complexion? Must I weigh more than the average person? Will you write an article on leaking valves, dealing with exercise, diet and symptoms? Please do not tell me to visit a doctor as it is impossible for me to do so."

"G."

You are a girl, G. I know, or else you wouldn't ask about your complexion.

No, leaky heart valves do not necessarily mean a poor complexion, nor do they necessarily mean poor health. There is a type of "leaky" valves in young adults and children which seems to disappear as they grow older, and which apparently is not abnormal. There is also a type of so-called leaking valves in older adults which apparently is without any harmful effects.

Oser was fond of telling his medical students about a young woman who came to him with leaking valves when he was a young doctor. He warned her that she was not to marry and have children. Twenty years or so later, a woman came to him for a general examination and in the course of the examination he told her she had leaky valves. She responded, "Yes, Doctor, you found them twenty years ago, when I was a girl, and you warned me not to marry and have children. You'll be interested to know that I have married and have six children."

Now, my dear G., what you told me not to do, I must do—that is, tell you to see your physician, to know whether your leaky valves are serious or not, and he will give you advice as to diet and exercise and other measures to follow. The

Household Hints

MENU HINT

Why not a sweet omelet for dessert when you are a business woman, or for any other reason want a quickly prepared and tasty dessert? This is the time of year when eggs are cheap and good. It behooves us to make use of them.

Braised Neck of Lamb Slices
Creamed Carrots and Peas
Young Onions Tea
Jelly Omelet

Today's Recipes

Braised Neck Slices—The neck should be cut in slices of about one inch thickness and boned with a thin knife. Fasten each slice into the shape of a round cutlet with a skewer. Sprinkle the surface with salt and pepper, cover with a horse-radish paste, dip the slices in beaten egg and then in crumbs. Sear both sides, add once up of stock, cover and braise in a baking dish nearly an hour, or until the meat is tender. Make a gravy of the liquid in the pan and serve over the slices.

Baked Jelly Omelet—Five eggs a little salt, two tablespoons sugar, one tablespoon butter, one-half cup tart jelly, two tablespoons toasted, chopped almonds. Separate the whites from the yolks of the eggs, beat the whites with the salt until stiff, beat the yolks until thick and fold into the whites with the sugar.

Melt the butter in a large omelet pan, pour in the egg mixture and cook until just beginning to set around the edges, then place the pan in a moderately hot oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit) and cook until the center of the omelet is firm, about five minutes. Heat the jam, pour it over half the omelet, sprinkle with the nuts, turn on to a hot platter. Garnish with whipped cream.

only general rules that can be given are that the weight must NOT increase above normal and if overweight it must be reduced gradually; the patient must be very careful to observe the other hygienic rules—sufficient sleep, outdoor air, etc. If there is a real heart trouble, the exercises and diet must be outlined by the doctor and also supervised. And don't be worried if your case is one of this type, G. With proper care, the heart will always be able to do its work.

If you do not know the physicians in your locality, ring up your County Medical Society and ask for a list.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, April 27.—The toll bridge industry's danger.

A young industry, already it's under attack.

Given a few more years, to mature and wax powerful, it could fight back like fury, and quite likely come out on top.

It ought to have been protected sooner. Now it's liable to succumb.

According to Barkley and Cochran, it's like this—

This country's full of "navigable streams"—so called. A stream you can barely float your hat in may be "navigable." If congress says it is, that's what it is—just as anything above half of one per cent's intoxicating, whether it is or not.

With the multiplication of automobile roads, there'll have to be more and more ways, all the time, for traffic to cross these water courses.

But only congress can authorize the spanning of a "navigable stream."

The promoter isn't a bridge builder. All he does is to keep his eyes open for good bridge sites—places where it's evident traffic will be brisk soon—and as often as he sees one, he asks congress for a franchise.

Congress has been pretty accommodating about it hitherto. A nice bunch of franchises on hand, the promoter simply passes 'em around.

Perhaps sometimes he really encourages a little bridge building, but not always. Occasionally he actually holds up a bridge which some community wants to build—maybe toll free—until it's settled with him for his franchise.

A few slick individuals start the game, on a small scale. Now big companies are being incorporated, to go into it wholesale. They toll not, neither do they spin, but Barkley and Cochran say they're making a ridiculous amount of money on no investment whatever, and will be raking it in in millions before long, unless a stop's put to their "graft," as the Missouri representative rather harshly calls it.

Besides, it's complained that they threaten to put a sort of crimp into automobile travel if they're allowed to run rampant.

Of course the toll folks declare they're being done a perfectly scandalous injustice.

They insist they're developing our national road system.

Unluckily for them, they haven't been at it long enough for the public to have become accustomed to toll bridges as a matter of course. The average motorist still hollers when he's mulcted. It's a very direct form of taxation, too, and correspondingly irritating.

Probably that's why Barkley and Cochran appear to have a lot of popular support in their crusade, instead of being generally considered a pair of communists, as the franchise people assure they are.

Living and Loving

LIFE'S TRAGEDIES

Did you ever look at a roomful of people and wonder what would be revealed if you could see into their lives from their own viewpoint? They look fairly placid, but if you could see the disappointments and headaches these same people suffer every day—the regrets for the past, the fears for the future, you would know that all life's tragedies are not told on the front pages of newspapers, but are enacted in apparently peaceful homes. Probably the girl who writes the following letters seems to have a happy home life, but read what she says:

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I am not just feel blue but it is mostly always that I feel unhappy. I sometimes feel like ending it all because life is so miserable. I have not kept company with a man for several years, and I long for company but mother doesn't consider it, because she never had any romance at all. I am tied down with the housework and cooking. Keep busy all the time. It is hard to take all the slams from my two married sisters. One of them has a little girl. The other has no children. She puts mother up to treat me mean, and I must knuckle down to all my folks. When I don't jump when they whistle I get scolded. They all tell me what to do. You don't know how hard it is to take it all. I am in my twenties and know I can take care of myself. I'm rather a strong girl. I would leave home, if I could. What would you do if you were me? I don't get paid for keeping house. Sometimes I get fifty cents a week, and a girl of my age should get at least a little more. I just can't stand it much longer.

"Heartbroken Miss."

First, my dear, let me do you a favor. There is something about human nature that makes it want to torment a person who goes about with a sad countenance when others can't see the cause. Cheer up! There is always a way out of every thing, and you are much more likely to find it if you keep bright, hopeful and alert. Nothing would do you more good than to get away from home and go to work. You would either grow more independent and self-respecting or you would appreciate the comforts you enjoy at home but which you can't see because you have nothing with which to compare them. Couldn't your sisters look after your mother for a time if you took a position? Or perhaps some other arrangements could be made. If not, get out to church to young people's meetings, etc. You are of age, you know; you don't have to be a slave.

Don't think that you are going to end your life. Make up your mind that the best is yet to come and that you are going to find it. Your mother and sisters don't realize that you are a grown woman and are treating you like a little girl, which is often the fate of the youngster members of a family.

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I am a girl of 17, and am in love with a boy, but we broke up. Do you think he will ever come back to me? I stopped talking first; do you think I ought to talk first?"

"Blue Eyes."

Surely, speak first, Blue Eyes. Then he will know you want to be friends again.

Peter's Adventure

TIME FOR BREAKFAST

Father Swift was the first to notice Peter's silence. Being a curious bird he said: "A penny for your thoughts, boy!"

"Why do call yourselves Swifts?" asked Peter. "I always thought you were Swallows."

"No, sir, we are not, and what is more, we are only distant relatives of the Swallows, although every one says we do resemble them more than our first cousins, the Nighthawks, and the Whippoorwills. You might not believe it, but the Hummingbirds are our cousins, too. We like the Swallows, though, and get along with them first rate."

The boy scarcely heard what Father Swift was saying. He was watching the fellow clinging to the side of the chimney. Father Swift didn't seem to be using his feet at all.

"How do you hang on?" asked Peter curiously. Swift proudly raised his head.

"I use the quills of my tail as a brace, putting them together so, replied the bird, showing Peter as best he could. "My feet are too weak to be of much use, but I don't need them, for my tail is the handiest thing in the world and my wings are so strong that when I am in the air I seldom perch to rest, but fly all the time. No bird that I know can outswim me. You should see me dive down this chimney. I fold my wings at my sides, as close as can be, and down I come, straight as a string, and up I soar."

"I have often heard that noise, but never knew what it was," before he could say more Chirpy Peter was deeply interested, but began to whimper:

"Oh, dear me, how hungry I

am!" and the four nestlings joined him.

"I am afraid you will have to excuse us, boy," said Mother Swift anxiously. "When the children begin to act like that it means we must get them something to eat quickly without another word."

"Whirr!" Out of the chimney flew Mr. and Mrs. Swift. Chirpy and his brothers and sisters paid

no more attention to their visitor. They did nothing but open wide their mouths and cry for food. So slowly the boy began his downward climb. Short as it had been, he was very glad that he had paid a visit to the Chimney Swifts.

Washington Park. The contest will be called at 2 p. m.

Springfield is planning to place a strong team in the field, but for that matter, so is Xenia.

Hood or Trace will be given the pitching assignment for the Reap City nine, while Schliff and McMichael will take care of the hurling duty for the local team.

Several league players will appear in the Springfield lineup, including Pitcher Trace, formerly with the Zanesville Grays; Fry, Ohio Wesleyan University player.

GOLF AND TENNIS AWAITS WEATHER

Xenia Central High School's golf and tennis teams are still "marking time" in so far as the Miami Valley League schedule is concerned.

Scheduled matches with Sidney High School in Xenia Friday were cancelled early this week by Sidney, according to Coach Victor Kolb, because the date conflicts with certain social activities of the school.

Previously the golf and tennis matches with Piqua High School at the Dayton Community Club were postponed indefinitely because of rain.

"BABE" RUTH

George Herman Ruth, New York Yankees' outfielder, was born at Baltimore, Md., on February 7, 1894. Ruth played with Providence and Baltimore in 1914, and was sold to the Boston Red Sox on July 8 of that year. The reported sale price was $29,000.

The Babe stuck with the Sox until 1919, when the new major league record of twenty-nine home runs caused the New York Yankees to buy him for $125,000 a record price.

The next year Ruth broke his record by hitting fifty-four home runs, and again in 1921 set a new mark of fifty-nine. This latest record stood until the 1927 season when he hit sixty homers.

In his career in the majors Ruth has hit 417 home runs.

He bats and throws left handed, stands six feet two and weighs 210 pounds.

RESERVES WILL OPEN SEASON SUNDAY IF WEATHER PERMITS

W EATHER permitting, the Xenia Reserves will open the current season against the powerful Springfield (Home City) Tramps Sunday afternoon at Washington Park. The contest will be called at 2 p. m.

Springfield is planning to place a strong team in the field, but for that matter, so is Xenia.

Hood or Trace will be given the pitching assignment for the Reserves City nine, while Schliff and McMichael will take care of the hurling duty for the local team.

Several league players will appear in the Springfield lineup, including Pitcher Trace, formerly with the Zanesville Grays; Fry, Ohio Wesleyan University player.

GOLF AND TENNIS AWAITS WEATHER

Xenia Central High School's golf and tennis teams are still "marking time" in so far as the Miami Valley League schedule is concerned.

Scheduled matches with Sidney High School in Xenia Friday were cancelled early this week by Sidney, according to Coach Victor Kolb, because the date conflicts with certain social activities of the school.

Previously the golf and tennis matches with Piqua High School at the Dayton Community Club were postponed indefinitely because of rain.

PERSONALITIES IN SPORT

"BABE" RUTH

George Herman Ruth, New York Yankees' outfielder, was born at Baltimore, Md., on February 7, 1894. Ruth played with Providence and Baltimore in 1914, and was sold to the Boston Red Sox on July 8 of that year. The reported sale price was $200,000.

The Babe stuck with the Sox until 1919, when the new major league record of twenty-nine home runs caused the New York Yankees to buy him for $125,000 a record price.

The next year Ruth broke his record by hitting fifty-four home runs, and again in 1921 set a new mark of fifty-nine. This latest record stood until the 1927 season when he hit sixty homers.

In his career in the majors Ruth has hit 417 home runs.

RE-APPOINTED TO COUNTY VISITORS

The Rev. W. P. Harriman, Co-darville, and Mrs. Alice M. Zeiner, Jamestown, were re-appointed members of the Board of County Visitors for terms of three years by Probate Judge S. C. Wright Thursday. Their appointments become effective May 1.

Other members of the board are: Mrs. Sarah G. Haller, Mrs. Della H. Snodgrass, Mrs. Leona G. Brewer and W. J. Oglesbee.

Creamed Comments On S.S. Lesson

With the crucifixion week but a few days ahead and while on the way to Jerusalem, Jesus closed his ministry in Perea with the third forecast of his fate in the capital and the second rebuke of ambition in the apostolic circle.

V. 35—"And there came near unto him, James and John, the sons of Zebedee saying unto him, 'Teacher, we would that thou shouldst do for us whatsoever we will ask of thee.'" Christ was addressed as a king having power to confer favors. The desire of ministerial promotion was evident then as now.

V. 36—"And he said unto them, 'What would ye that I should do for thee?' Jesus proceeds to uncover the hidden secrets which when exposed will serve as a basis of judgment.

V. 37—"And they said unto him, 'grant unto us that we sit, one on the right hand, and one on the left hand, in glory.'" Here is a wrong prayer because it is absolutely selfish; they wanted to be honored with a crown and a position above all others.

V. 38—"But Jesus said unto them, 'ye know not what ye ask. Are ye able to drink the cup that I drink? Or to be baptized with the baptism that I am baptized with?'" Service implies, first, correct information and proper evaluation of true living which may call for abject suffering such as was Christ's on the cross.

V. 39—"And they said unto him, 'we are able. And Jesus said unto them, the cup that I drink, ye shall drink; and with the baptism that I am baptized withal shall ye be baptized.'" The answer given by the disciples was the only answer they could give but it carried more meaning than they were aware of for they each suffered martyrdom.

V. 40—"But so sit on my right hand or on my left is not mine to give; but it is for them for whom it is prepared." Salvation is not purchased but freely given to those who have been duly prepared by regeneration and sanctification.

V. 41—"And when the ten heard it, they began to be moved with indignation concerning James and John." All the disciples were human else there would have been pity instead of criticism; few can stand the test of unfair competition.

Vs. 42, 43—"And Jesus called them to him, and said unto them, 'we know that they who accounted to rule over the Gentiles lord it over them. But it shall not be so among you; but whosoever would become great among you, shall be your minister.'" Christianity is diametrically opposed to arbitrary authority. Christ does not deprecate the desire for greatness but points the way to humble service.

Vs. 44, 45—"And whosoever would be first among you, shall be servant of all." Of these teachings, Christ is the model; the real history of mankind portrays life of men called great because of noble deeds rendered.

The twenty-six evangelical denominations of North America, with a combined membership of 22,890,210 contributed a total of $489,429,972.89 to all objects during the last year. Of this, $37,826,774.89 was applied to missions and benevolences. Per capita contributions ranged from $38.51 in the Protestant Episcopal church to $9.59 in the Disciples of Christ.

Discussion on Questions S.S. Lesson

1. When is it right and when is it wrong to seek positions of service?
2. How should one rightfully attain positions of power and trust?
3. How can we keep from making wrong prayers?
4. What is the limiting condition of every true and sincere prayer?
5. Why should the other disciples find fault with the two who sought special favor?
6. What is the crown "that fadeth not away"?
7. Give illustrations of those who became great through service.

Clericus says, "How slow we are to see that worldly ambitions, competition and self-assertion are utterly alien to the social order of brotherhood and love in Christ. When we recognize our stewardship, our ambition will be to serve. The only competition among true stewards is a competition in good works propelled by the Christian motive."

Lesson Prayer: "O, Lord, teach us to pray aright; Infill within us a true spirit and motive of service; lead us to do all things in thy name."

BOOK REVIEW

"Gentlemen, The King," Oxenham, The Pilgrim Press, 75 cents, is an inspiring interpretation of the meaning of the life of Christ written in verse of exceptional dignity. "King Arthur and the Holy Grail," Jaffray, Putnam's Sons, N. Y., is an examination of the early literature pertaining to the legends of King Arthur and the Holy Grail.

DEATH BY THE WAY OF INQUISITIVENESS

Some one in observing fatalities as a result of being inquisitive, summarized the suggestive sentences that are common having in them an urge to action. These are some of the statements:—

"I don't think it's loaded. I'll just look down the barrel and see."

"Look at this wire hanging down in the street. I'll throw it over to the side."

"I wonder if this rope will hold my weight."

"How much electricity do you suppose these wires carry? I'll just touch one and find out."

"Listen, that's the interurban whistle. Step on the gas. I'm sure we can beat it across."

"It's no fun swimming here. I'm going out beyond the life-lines."

"Listen, that's the interurban whistle. Step on the gas. I'm sure we can beat it across."

"I think these must be headache tablets, although there isn't any label on the box."—D. Carl Yoder.

actually meet the needs of all the different groups and individuals." "We are living in age of specialization. It is just as important that we have specialists in the field of religious education as in secular education. The children's, young people's and adult divisions represent entirely different fields. Instead of attempting to supervise worship for the whole school why not ask for one of the divisions. If you are particularly interested in children's work you would want naturally to specialize as a supervisor of worship in the children's division. If your field is with the young people or adults, make your choice accordingly."—The Efficiency Man.

Gypsy Smith is booked for an evangelistic campaign in Toronto during the month of April. Gideons have placed 193 Bibles in the hotels of Marion, Ind., recently.

The first school building in this country erected exclusively for week-day religious instruction has been dedicated by the St. John's Lutheran Church of Allentown, Pa. A number of Christian physicians in New York state and in Canada have effected an organization named "Lukans" after "Luke" the gospel writer.

A petition signed by 100 leading members requests that mass and confessions should be eliminated from the rites of the High Episcopal Church.

A reliable exchange reports that last year, out of 9,229 Presbyterian churches, there were 3,229 reporting no conversions; out of 8,765 Baptist churches, 3,474 reported no conversions; out of 16,581 Methodist churches, 4,651 reported no conversions.

Owing to an age rule for Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church five of the thirty-seven bishops will be retired at the General Conference to be held in May, at Kansas City; they are Joseph F. THE BETTER WAY

Religion and the Radio

Religion and music are the two most popular subjects over the radio. Authorities of the broadcasting companies aver this to be true. Their viewpoint is shared by many other responsible radio officials. The Advisory Council of the National Broadcasting Company, so meticulous of satisfying the deep-seated interest of its listeners in religion, has appointed a committee on religious activities, consisting of Hon. Morgan J. O'Brien, Mr. Julius Rosenwald and Rev. Chas. McFarland, chairman. The fundamental principles of religious broadcasting agreed upon by this committee and adopted by the National Broadcasting Company are:

1. The National Broadcasting Company will serve only the central of national agencies of great religious faiths, as for example the Roman Catholics, the Protestants and the Hebrews, as distinguished from the individual churches or small group movements where the national membership is comparatively small.
2. The religious message broadcast should be non-sectarian and non-denominational in appeal.
3. The religious broadcast message should be of the widest appeal, presenting the broad claims of religion, which not only aid in building up the personal and social life of the individual but also aid in popularizing religion and the church.
4. The religious message broadcast should interpret religion at its highest and best, so that as an educational factor it will bring the individual listener to realize his responsibility to the organized church.
5. The national religious messages should only be broadcast by the recognized outstanding leaders of several faiths.

"O WORLD, BE NOT SO FAIR"

O MOON, O hide thy golden light,
O night, be not so fair;
O ye dear stars, shine not so bright:
I would for sleep prepare.
Mine eyes are closing wearily
That watched the slow day's flight,
And yet there is no rest for me
In this enchanted night.

O fellow-men, be not too good!
O world, be not too fair!
Wake no new life-glow in my blood—
I would for sleep prepare.

My day is dim; there beckons clear
A star of other air;
And yet, and yet, my heart is here!

O world, be not so fair.

Vs. 44, 45—"And whosoever would be first among you, shall be servant of all." Of these teachings, Christ is the mode; the real history of mankind portrays life of men called great because of noble deeds rendered.

The twenty-six evangelical denominations of North America, with a combined membership of 22,890,210 contributed a total of $489,429,572.89 to all objects during the last year. Of this, $87,826,774.89 was applied to missions and benevolences. The entire contributions ranged from $38.51 in the Protestant Episcopal church to $9.59 in the Disciples of Christ.

Discussion on Questions S.S. Lesson

1. When is it right and when is it wrong to seek positions of service?
2. How should one rightly attain positions of power and trust?
3. How can we keep from making wrong prayers?
4. What is the limiting condition of every true and sincere prayer?
5. Why should the other disciples find fault with the two who sought special favor?
6. What is the crown "that fadeth not away?"
7. Give illustrations of those who became great through service.

Clericus says, "How slow we are to see that worldly ambitions, competition and self-assertion are utterly alien to the social order of brotherhood and love in Christ. When we recognize our stewardship, our ambition will be to serve. The only competition among true stewards is a competition in good works propelled by the Christian motive."

Lesson Prayer: "O, Lord, teach us to pray aright; instill within us a true spirit and motive of service; lead us to do all things in thy name."

BOOK REVIEW
"Gentlemen: The King," Oxenham, The Pilgrim Press, 75 cents, is an inspiring interpretation of the meaning of the life of Christ written in verse of exceptional dignity. "King Arthur and the Holy Grail," Jaffray, Putnam's Sons, N. Y., is an examination of the early literature pertaining to the legends of King Arthur and the Holy Grail.

DEATH BY THE WAY OF INQUISITIVENESS

Some one in observing fatalities as a result of being inquisitive, summarized the suggestive sentences that are common having in them an urge to action. These are some of the statements:—
"I don't think it's loaded. I'll just look down the barrel and see."
"Look at this wire hanging down in the street. I'll throw it over to one side."
"I wonder if this rope will hold my weight."
"How much electricity do you suppose these wires carry? I'll just touch one and find out."

"Listen, that's the interurban whistle. Step on the gas. I'm sure we can beat it across."
"It's no fun swimming here. I'm going out beyond the life-lines."
"I've never driven a car in traffic before but they say it's perfectly simple."
"I think these must be headache tablets, although there isn't a label on the box."—D. Carl Yoder.

actually meet the needs of all the different groups and individuals.
"We are living in age of specialization. It is just as important that we have specialists in the field of religious education as in secular education. The children's, young people's and adult divisions represent entirely different fields. Instead of attempting to supervise worship for the whole school why not ask for one of the divisions. If you are particularly interested in children's work you would want naturally to specialize as a supervisor of worship in the children's division. If your field is with the young people or adults, make your choice accordingly."—The Efficiency Man.

The first school building in this country erected exclusively for week-day religious instruction has been dedicated by the St. John's Lutheran Church of Allentown, Pa. A number of Christian physicians have effected an organization named "Lukans" after "Luke" the gospel writer.

A petition signed by 100 leading members requests that mass and confessions should be eliminated from the rites of the High Episcopal Church.

A reliable exchange reports that last year, out of 9,229 Presbyterian churches, there were 3,299 reporting no conversions; out of 8,765 Baptist churches, 3,474 reported no conversions; out of 16,581 Methodist churches, 4,651 reported no conversions.

Owing to an age rule for Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church five of the thirty-seven bishops will be retired at the General Conference to be held in May, at Kansas City; they are Joseph F. THE BETTER WAY

Religion and music are the two most popular subjects over the radio. Authorities of the broadcast companies agree that to be true their viewpoint is shared by many other responsible radio officials. The Advisory Council of the National Broadcasting Company, so laudatory of satisfying the deep-seated interest of its listeners in religion, has appointed a committee on religious activities, consisting of Hon. Morgan J. O'Brien, Mr. Julius Rosenwald and Rev. Chas. McFarland, chairman. The five fundamental principles of religious broadcasting agreed upon by this committee and adopted by the National Broadcasting Company are: 1. The National Broadcasting Company will serve only the central of national agencies of great religious faiths, as for example the Roman Catholics, the Protestants and the Hebrews, as distinguished from the individual churches or small group movements where the national membership is comparatively small.

2. The religious message broadcast should be non-sectarian and non-denominational in appeal.

3. The religious broadcast message should be of the widest appeal—presenting the broad claims of religion, which not only aid in building up the personal and social life of the individual but also aid in popularizing religion and the church.

4. The religious message broadcast should interpret religion at its highest and best so that as an educational factor it will bring the individual listener to realize his responsibility to the organized church.

5. The national religious messages should only be broadcast by the recognized outstanding leaders of several faiths.

Poems that Live
"O WORLD, BE NOT SO FAIR"
MOON, O hide thy golden light,
O night, be not so fair;
O ye dear stars, shine not so bright:
I would for sleep prepare.
Mine eyes are closing wearily
That watched the slow day's flight,
And yet there is no rest for me
In this enchanted night.
O fellow-men, be not too good!
O world, be not too fair!
Wake no new life-glow in my blood—
I would for sleep prepare.
My day is dim; there beckons clear
A star of other air;
And yet, and yet, my heart is here!
O world, be not so fair.

FIFTY STREET SIGNS WILL BE ERECTED; INCREASED LATER

Purchase of fifty street signs from The Boyd Sign Co., Columbus, O., at a cost of approximately $500, was authorized by City Commission Thursday night.

City Manager S. O. Hale announced that it is the intention to erect the new signs at the principal intersections on main thoroughfares of the city.

Eventually it is planned to place signs at all street intersections in Xenia, but since this would involve purchase of nearly 1,000 signs, the project may not be completed for several years.

The type of sign decided upon is made of heavy metal, crossed at the top and mounted on a seven-foot pole of iron pipe. It is believed to be the most durable type available.

Black letters about two inches high against a white background will be used. The name of the street will be designated but whether the thoroughfare is a street or avenue will not be shown as this additional cost is believed to be prohibitive.

The signs will show, however, whether the street is north, south, east or west.

Commission also passed a resolution authorizing the city engineer to prepare plans and specifications for placing curbs and gutters on Hill St. between Monroe and Columbus Sts.

PLAN FUNERAL FOR VICTIM OF OSBORN CAR LINE CROSSING

With the removal of the body to Springfield, funeral arrangements were being completed Friday for William E. Trieb, 20 S. Florence St., Springfield, O., who was killed instantly when his coupe crashed into an eastbound I. C. and E. Tractor Co. car at the Wilson Road crossing, at the north corporation line of Osborn Thursday morning.

Cards in his pockets enabled him to be identified as a Springfield resident.

The tractor was derailed and threatened to overturn, but the six passengers were unhurt.

Trieb was a traveling representative for the Mossberg Corp., manufacturers of auto accessories at Attleboro, Mass. He was en route to Dayton to keep a business appointment when the accident occurred.

Trieb lived with his widowed mother, Mrs. Martha Gaier, in Springfield, and had left home for a four weeks' Eastern trip. Unexpectedly returning to Springfield Wednesday night, he went to the home of his sister, Mrs. T. E. Warde, 324 Perrin Ave., where he spent the night.

Trieb was a graduate of St. Joseph High School, Springfield. From the time of his graduation until the armistice was signed, he served in the navy. He is also survived by a brother, Matt, Seattle, Wash., and a half brother, Paul Gaier. Trieb was unmarried.

Increasing use of radio for communication is having an appreciable effect on weather on land and sea, according to Captain W. H. Parker, of an ocean liner plying between New York and French and English ports.

The captain blames radio for the violence of gales, high seas and freak weather conditions, saying that the electrical waves form a network of conflicting forces.

DAVID MATTHEWS DIES IN DAYTON

DAYTON, O. April 27.—Attorney David T. Matthews, 31, son of Judge E. P. Matthews, 706 Oakwood Ave., passed away at the Miami Valley Hospital at 3:15 a. m. Friday morning. Death was caused by pneumonia, and followed a brief illness which began when he contracted a cold last Sunday.

Attorney Matthews was a member of the law firm of Matthews and Matthews and served with Battery D, which was a part of the 134 field artillery and the 37th division.

Funeral services will be held at the residence at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

OFFICIAL VOTE COUNT PLACES HOUSTON IN TIE WITH TIPTON

Correction of an error in the official tabulation of the Greene County vote for Seventh District Republican delegates to the national convention at Tuesday's presidential preference primary election gave Harold W. Houston, Urbana, Hoover candidate, nine additional votes and placed him in a tie with Forest F. Tipton, Washington, C. H. Willis delegate, according to R. E. Dunkel, clerk of the board of elections.

The error occurred in the fourth Xenia precinct, where Houston was credited officially with forty votes, whereas a re-count disclosed he actually received forty-nine votes.

The additional nine votes increased his total to 758 for the entire county, the same number credited to Tipton. Unlike the remaining eight counties in the district, which gave the two Willis delegates huge majorities, Greene County voters favored the Hoover candidates as Harry S. Kissell, Springfield, Hoover supporter, got the ticket in this county with 774 votes. Lemuel Mitch, Clark County, the other Willis delegate, trailed with 736.

Tabulation of the official count was completed by the election board Thursday night and will be forwarded to Secretary of State Clarence J. Brown.

HAGEN DISTANCED BY BRITISH STAR

MOON PARK, Hertfordshire, England, April 27.—The first thirty-six holes of the seventy-two-hole match between A. G. Compton, famous English professional, and Walter Hagen, the American star, ended this evening with Compton fourteen up on Hagen.

Despite a light rain which fell during the afternoon, a large gallery followed the play, and vigorously applauded Hagen's efforts during the afternoon rounds to overcome Compton's big lead.

Hagen had trouble with the bunkers, and his putting was also not up to his usual form. Thirty-six holes will be played tomorrow the winner receiving a purse of approximately $3,750.

DEMOCRATS OFFER SUBSTITUTE RELIEF

WASHINGTON, April 27.—With passage of the McNary-Haugen bill regarded as a foregone conclusion, it appeared today that the agricultural relief policies of the Coolidge administration would be sponsored by Democrats.

Rep. Aswell (D) of Louisiana and Rep. Crisp (D) of Georgia, both prepared to offer substitute bills which are closely akin to the relief measures proposed by Secretary of Agriculture Jardine.

"The house is going to get three chances to vote upon the principles of my own bill," said Rep. Aswell. "It will be offered as a substitute for the Haugen bill as soon as general debate ends; if that fails I will move to strike out the equalization fee and finally, if necessary, to recommit the bill."

CONSTIPATION PREYS ON HEALTH

You can overcome it with ALL-BRAN

If you are troubled with constipation, read Mrs. Hogan's letter below. It came to us unsolicited—a message of relief to every sufferer:

February 12, 1927

"I want to tell you how much good your ALL-BRAN has done me. I surely can't be beat for constipation. I have tried every kind of medicine and never in my whole life have been relieved until one of my neighbors told me to try bran. So I bought a box and read about your ALL-BRAN and thought I would see what it would do—and it surely did help me. I will never be without it in the house again."

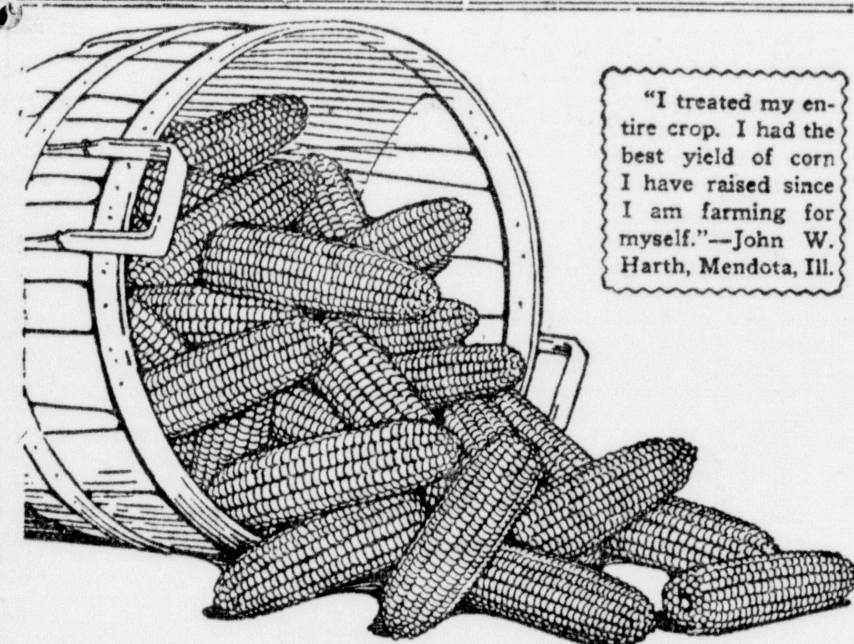

Mrs. Joseph Hogan,
1215 Clay St., Topeka, Kansas.

Constipation is almost universal. The cause of more than forty diseases. Dizziness, aching backs, circled eyes, bad complexions, are only a few of its symptoms.

Guard against it. Start tomorrow eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Two tablespoons daily—chronic cases, with every meal. Guaranteed. Doctors recommend it.

A healthful cereal. Serve ALL-BRAN with milk or cream—and add fruits or honey. Sprinkle it into soups. Use it in cooking. Sold by all grocers. Served everywhere. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

More Bushels of Corn
from the Same Acreage

New Seed Treatment Makes Possible Increases of 5 to 15 Bushels per Acre

Permits Earlier Planting in Spite of Adverse Weather

You can now secure 5 to 15 bushels more corn from every acre you plant. A new corn seed treatment has made these amazing results the common experience of hundreds of practical corn growers, and farmers throughout the corn belt.

This treatment prevents seedling blight, root rot and other diseases that literally steal the results of your hard work in hot fields. It protects the seed from disease both on the seed and in the soil.

It thus insures germination and sturdy growth never before possible from poor seed and benefits good seed by protecting it from the attacks of soil infesting organisms which take a heavy toll from even the best untreated seed.

Keeps Seed from ROTTING in the Ground

Bayer seed treatment will keep your seed from rotting in the ground—even if the soil is cold and wet after planting time. It thus permits earlier planting and protects you against replanting losses in spite of weather conditions. It helps the corn off to a good start, promotes quick maturity, an in-

Tests Conducted by U. S. Dept. of Agriculture Show that the Bayer Seed treatment of nearly disease-free Dent Corn gave an increase of 8.5 bushels per acre; of Diplodia infected seed, 15.8 bushels, and of Gibberella infected seed, 28.9 bushels. —Phytopathology, Jan., 1926.

Increased yield and greater profits.

Easy to Use — and Costs but a Few Cents per Acre

You need no special equipment for this new seed treatment. No tiresome or lengthy procedure is involved. Two bushels of seed can be treated in less than three minutes. And the cost is less than 5c per acre.

Treat Other Seeds Too N Use Bayer seed treatment for your potatoes and other vegetables and help prevent the costly diseases that cause poor germination, weak, spindly plants and low yields of crops.

One pound treats 6 bushels of seed corn, or 6 to 8 bushels of vegetable seed, or 15 to 20 bushels of seed potatoes.

FIFTY STREET SIGNS WILL BE ERECTED; INCREASED LATER

Purchase of fifty street signs from The Boyd Sign Co., Columbus, O., at a cost of approximately $500, was authorized by City Commission Thursday night.

City Manager S. O. Hale announced that it is the intention to erect the new signs at the principal intersections on main thoroughfares of the city.

Eventually it is planned to place signs at all street intersections in Xenia, but since this would involve purchase of nearly 1,000 signs, the project may not be completed for several years.

The type of sign decided upon is made of heavy metal, crossed at the top and mounted on a seven-foot pole of iron pipe. It is believed to be the most durable type available.

Black letters about two inches high against a white background will be used. The name of the street will be designated but whether the thoroughfare is a street or avenue will not be shown as this additional cost is believed to be prohibitive.

The signs will show, however, whether the street is north, south east or west.

CONSTIPATION PREYS ON HEALTH

You can overcome it with ALL-BRAN

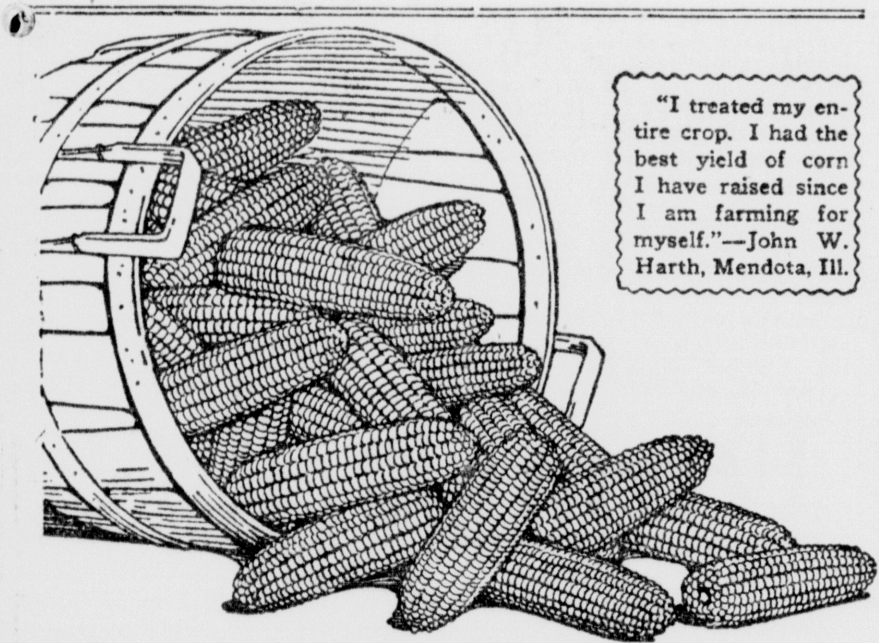

If you are troubled with constipation, read Mrs. Hogan's letter below. It came to us unsolicited—a message of relief to every sufferer.

February 12, 1927.
"I want to tell you how much good your ALL-BRAN has done me. I surely can't be best for constipation. I have tried every kind of medicine and never in my life have been relieved until one of my neighbors told me to try bran. So I bought a box and read about your ALL-BRAN and thought I would see what it would do—and it surely did help me. I will never be without it in the house again."

Mrs. Joseph Hogan,
1215 Clay St., Topeka, Kansas.
Constipation is almost universal. The cause of more than forty diseases. Dizziness, aching backs, circled eyes, bad complexions, are only a few of its symptoms.

Guard against it. Start tomorrow eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Two tablespoons daily—chronic cases, with every meal. Guaranteed. Doctors recommend it. A healthful cereal. Serve ALL-BRAN with milk or cream—and add fruits or honey. Sprinkle it into soups. Use it in cooking. Sold by all grocers. Served everywhere. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

More Bushels of Corn from the Same Acreage

Permits Earlier Planting in Spite of Adverse Weather

You can now secure 5 to 15 bushels more corn from every acre you plant. A new corn seed treatment has made these amazing results the common experience of hundreds of practical corn growers and farmers throughout the corn belt.

This treatment prevents seedling blight, root rot and other diseases that literally steal the results of your hard work in hot fields. It protects the seed from disease both on the seed and in the soil.

It thus insures germination and sturdy growth never before possible from poor seed and benefits good seed by protecting it from the attacks of soil infesting organisms which take a heavy toll from even the best untreated seed.

Bayer seed treatment will keep your seed from rotting in the ground—even if the soil is cold and wet after planting time. It thus permits earlier planting and protects you against replanting losses in spite of weather conditions. It helps the corn off to a good start, promotes quick maturity, an in-

Tests Conducted by U. S. Dept. of Agriculture show that the Bayer Dust treatment of nearly disease-free Dent Corn gave an increase of 8.5 bushels per acre; of Diploid infected seed, 15.8 bushels; and of Gibberella infected seed, 28.9 bushels. — Phytopathology, Jan., 1926.

Increased yield and greater profits. Easy to Use — and Costs but a Few Cents per Acre

You need no special equipment for this new seed treatment. No tiresome or lengthy procedure is involved. Two bushels of seed can be treated in less than three minutes. And the cost is less than 5c per acre.

Treat Other Seeds Too N Use Bayer seed treatment for your potatoes and other vegetables and help prevent the costly diseases that cause poor germination, weak, spindly plants and low yields of crops.

One pound treats 5 bushels of seed corn, or 6 to 8 bushels of vegetable seed, or 15 to 20 bushels of seed potatoes.

Radio Weather

Increasing use of radio for communication is having an appreciable effect on weather on land and sea, according to Captain W. H. Parker, of an ocean liner plying between New York and French and English ports. The captain blames radio for the violence of gales, high seas and freak weather conditions, saying that the electrical waves form a network of conflicting forces.

PLAN FUNERAL FOR VICTIM OF OSBORN CAR LINE CROSSING

With the removal of the body to Springfield, funeral arrangements were being completed Friday for William E. Trieb, 20 S. Florence St., Springfield, O., who was killed instantly when his coupe crossed into an eastbound I. C. and E. Traction Co. car at the Wilson Road crossing, at the north corporation line of Osborn Thursday morning.

Cards in his pockets enabled him to be identified as a Springfield resident.

The traction was derailed and threatened to overturn, but the six passengers were unhurt. Trieb was a traveling representative for the Mossberg Corp., manufacturers of auto accessories at Attleboro, Mass. He was en route to Dayton to keep a business appointment when the accident occurred.

Trieb lived with his widowed mother, Mrs. Martha Galer, in Springfield, and had left home for a four weeks' Eastern trip. Unexpectedly returning to Springfield Wednesday night, he went to the home of his sister, Mrs. T. E. Warde, 324 Perrin Ave., where he spent the night.

Trieb was a graduate of St. Joseph High School, Springfield. From the time of his graduation until the armistice was signed, he served in the navy. He is also survived by a brother, Matt, Seattle, Wash., and a half brother, Paul Galer. Trieb was unmarried.

FIND STOLEN CAR

A Ford sedan, belonging to Leigh Bickett, New Jasper Pike, stolen from in front of Trinity M. E. Church, E. Main St., Thursday night, was found abandoned on a lane leading back of the Central High School building Friday morning, police announce. The gasoline tank was empty.

OFFICIAL VOTE COUNT PLACES HOUSTON IN TIE WITH TIPTON

Correction of an error in the official tabulation of the Greene County vote for Seventh District Republican delegates to the national convention at Tuesday's presidential preference primary election gave Harold W. Houston, Republican candidate, nine additional votes and placed him in a tie with Forest F. Tipton, Washington C. H. Willis delegate, according to R. E. Dunkel, clerk of the board of elections.

The error occurred in the fourth Xenia precinct, where Houston was credited officially with forty votes, whereas a recount disclosed he actually received forty-nine votes. The additional nine votes in increased his total to 758 for the entire county, the same number credited to Tipton. Unlike the remaining eight counties in the district, which gave the two WPI's delegates huge majorities, Greene County voters favored the Hoover candidate as Harry S. Kiesel, Springfield, Hoover supporter, put the ticket in this county with 774 votes. Lemuel Mitch, Clark County, the other Willis delegate, trailed with 736.

Tabulation of the official count was completed by the election board Thursday night and will be forwarded to Secretary of State Clarence J. Brown.

HAGEN DISTANCED BY BRITISH STAR

MOOR PARK, Hertfordshire, England, April 27.—The first thirty-six holes of the seventy-two-hole match between Archie Compson, famous English professional, and Walter Hagen, the American star, ended this evening with Compson fourteen up on Hagen.

Despite a light rain which fell during the afternoon, a large gallery followed the play, and vigorously applauded Hagen's efforts during the afternoon rounds to overcome Compson's big lead.

Hagen had trouble with the bunkers, and his putting was also not up to his usual form. Thirty-six holes will be played tomorrow the winner receiving a purse of approximately $3,750.

PURDOM and McFARLAND
Ph. 1156 52 E. Main St.Radio Revue
BY C. KAYNEW YORK, April 27.—Higher
class daytime broadcast programs
are coming into their own, because dealers in receiving sets are demanding them.While the listening public is being considered in the promotion of
the NBC "blue" network afternoon
programs, the main concern of the RCA, the promoters, is the radio
dealer.From the standpoint of the tradesman in equipment, there has
been too little broadcasting of a
"quality" type during the daytime,
to convince critical prospects that
the contemplated purchase will handle adequately volume beyond
that of a cafe orchestra. And the fact that good entertainment is on tap afterwards as well as evenings is another good selling talk
for the dealer in high-grade equipment.The new feature is broadcast
through NBC "blue" network stations, Saturday afternoons at 2:30.
It is a variety hour, with orchestras
of four separate types, instrumental ensembles and notable singers,
and presenting programs ranging from the lightest of popular music to the most serious of classics, providing a range excellent for dealer demonstration purposes. Saturday afternoon is considered the psychological time for such an hour.Of course the new programs are going to be welcome to persons
who are kept at home on Saturday
afternoons by inclement weather or illness.Matinee hours have been reserved.ing more and more attention from the broadcasters in the last year
or two, but the biggest buyers of
radio are still reluctant to promote
their advertising hours during daylight.There have been plenty of indications from the women-folk that
they are not satisfied with the quality of entertainment served up
during mornings and afternoons.
Letters pour into broadcasting stations from women who wonder why
some of the good things that are broadcast in the evening can't be transferred to daylight hours."The children are at school, and the men folk are away in the day-
time, and we have more opportunities to listen to programs and concentrate on what is being played
or said," many of the letters read.
"In the evening the men folk
are at home and want to talk or play cards or read, or there is the opportunity to get to the movies or
to friends."However, broadcasters are of the opinion that there isn't justification for division of the important
features between afternoon and evening. On farms the hours of leisure are in the evening. And promoters of commercial hours are interested in broadcasting at the time the most persons will be reached, which is in the evening.The biggest reason why the most important programs are put on in
the evening, of course, is that at night conditions are more favorable
for distance broadcasting. The sun has a way of sapping the strength of the Hertzian waves.SWEETHEARTS

"Why should as pretty a girl as Claire Stanhope weep?"

READ THIS FIRST:

Lynda Fenton, a singularly innocent girl, is private secretary to Ralph Armitage. Her father, a drunkard, tells her that her mother
deserted them, and that all women
have their price.Lynda meets Emily Andrews,
who cherishes a secret fondness
for David Kenmore, Lynda's companion from childhood. Emily plots against Lynda from the very beginning. David tells Lynda he loves
her, but she decides she doesn't want to be in love with any man—
David is away on a trip.Lynda's father, too, deserts her,
and Claire Stanhope comes to live
with her. Claire tells of innocent
love for Fred Blaque, a married
man. Lynda comes home one day
to find Fred in the house, and hears Claire entreating him to stay away.June Challer, who has annexed
money, invites Lynda and Claire
and Emily Andrews to a big party.
It's Lynda's first real affair, and she's enthralled. Emily secretly sends David a letter, suggesting that he come home for the party,
so that Lynda may be made to feel at ease. Then she sends him
an anonymous note, saying "Ralph Armitage is rushing your girl!"Ralph has met with an accident, and Lynda goes to his home to take dictation. There he holds her hand,
and plays up to her sympathy and simplicity.When she bends and kisses him lightly, in simple innocence, he terminates the session.That night he sends for Lynda
and Claire, and they go to him.
(Now Go On With the Story)CHAPTER XXXII
MRS. BLAQUE THREATENS DIVORCERalph dropped Claire's fingers,
and his eyes passed on to the girl
just behind her.As Lyn came forward, the feel of her hand in his was like wine
to his flagging spirit. He lifted her, and she came to him, and he kissed her, although Ralph Armitage knew her feeling was partly for him, and partly because of her sympathetic youthful pity for everyone in trouble, seemed to make his pain less.As he looked at her, a kind of surprise flooded in consciousness,
for he suddenly became aware that
never before in all his storm-swept
life had he had the passionate desire to take any woman in his arms
that he now had for the girl. For a moment his lids drooped again
over his eyes. He could not tell
which was the most unbearable—
his physical pain, or his great heart longing."I hardly expected you girls
would come," he said again. "If I had really thought you would have
been so sweet to pay me this visit,
I would have sent for you earlier
in the evening. I lay here for two hours, calling myself a fool for thinking you might accede to my unconventional request. At last, I could not stand it any longer, and
on the spur of nerve-racking pain,
I sent Wilson with the note.""I never knew time to pass
so slowly as it did after he left, until I heard your voices in the other
room. Now that you are here,
tell me all the news. I want to hear you talk. I want to look into your faces. What have you been doing lately, Claire?""Crying most of the time," answered Lynda, bluntly."Why should as pretty a girl as Claire Stanhope weep?" asked Ralph, rather teasingly. "Unless it were for the pleasure of having someone wine away her tears.""Well, there is no pleasure in this, Mr. Armitage, I can assure you," explained Lyn. "Mrs. Fred Blaque has named her as co-respondent in her divorce suit.""What! What do you mean, co-respondent?" In his surprise, Ralph Armitage twisted his shoulder a little, and shrank back in his pillows with a groan.Lynda, all sympathy, bent over him, trying to make him more comfortable—and Claire lent a helping hand, saying: "You mustn't worry about my affairs. You must get well yourself, as soon as possible.""Has Mrs. Blaque filed her papers yet?" Ralph asked, as soon as he was settled in a comfortable position, where he still held Lynda's hand."I don't know," answered Lyn.
"She wrote a letter to Claire, saying that she had given them sealed to a lawyer—whatever that may mean—telling him to begin proceedings on a certain date, when her husband was to be served, and everything made public. She said she had not told her husband yet.""She's trying to frighten you, Claire," interrupted Ralph. "She doesn't want a divorce from Fred.
He has offered to make a trust fund for her and the children, so she could live just as well as she does now, if she would give him
a divorce on the grounds of desertion, or anything else that would not make a scandal.""She told Claire, also, that she was going to sue her for alienating
her husband's affections," interrupted Lyn."How much does she expect to get?" asked Ralph, with the nearest approach to a grin that Lyn had seen on his face since he was hurt."Oh, of course, she knows she would not get anything," answered
Lynda, again taking up Claire's
cause. "But you can see what this means, can't you? If her name
gets in the papers in connection
with Mrs. Blaque's divorce suit, it will not only part her forever from
Mr. Blaque, but you know your father will discharge her. I am told by everyone that he is dread-
fully afraid of a scandal in the office."Ralph's grin had changed to a sardonic smile. "I expect he thinks
I'm scandal enough for one business corporation," he said, bitterly."Look here, Claire," he continued, "I'm going to be very frank
with you. Fred Blaque is one of my oldest friends; we were both in
'prep' and college together. Of course I like him, but I also know
that his wife has some right on
her side. He has acknowledged
this to me, when I have told him
that he was a very bad little boy,
and advised him to stick it out for
the sake of his little girls, if for nothing else. One may even get used to any kind of pain. I who consider myself an expert on that sort of thing, tell you so.""Nevertheless, Claire, I am sure that you are the one woman that Fred Blaque cares for, notwithstanding he kissed Pamela She-ton good-bye on the avenue at
four o'clock of a sunny afternoon.
Men do queer things. They may love one woman devotedly, and
still find momentary joy in another woman's kisses. It isn't a very pleasant thought, is it? But you know I told you that I was going to be frank with you.""Fred was very unhappy the other day when he told me you said
you were never going to have anything more to do with him. After you found out he was married, he said you had never been the same,
and he did not care what became
of himself. That's why he has been drinking so much this year.""That's a good one, Claire," interrupted Lyn. "You are to blame
because Fred Blaque has patronized his bootlegger more than usual. You will probably also be blamed because he felt inclined to kiss Miss She-ton."Ralph looked rather shocked.
One of the reasons he had been drawn to Lyn was because she was not flippant. He wondered if she was growing hard. He went on as though she had not spoken."I think he would be glad now
to get a divorce from his wife,
even if she named you as co-respondent, my dear Claire. For then, perhaps, you would marry him."Claire Stanhope rose to her feet.

LEADERSHIP IS AIM

Raising better chickens, pigs or calves is far from the sole objective of 4-H club work among boys
and girls. Development of leadership—ability to help others to help themselves—has become one of the most important functions of the work.Training in leadership will be emphasized at a third district
camp which is to be held in Lick-
ing County this summer, July 9 to July 14. Other club members will receive particular attention at this camp. Each county may send eight persons. It has been suggested

NANCY SCHRAM IS RETURNED TO HOME

Nancy Schram, 15, daughter of
Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Schram, Riverside Drive, Dayton, sophomore at Steele High School, who has been missing since March 28, returned home Thursday after discovering working in a tea room in Columbus.

The girl was discovered by George P. Holland, Dayton attorney, who represented her father in searching for the girl. Clues during the past several weeks have led to Cincinnati, Detroit, Toledo, Cleveland, Mansfield and Columbus.

The girl gave no reason for her action, except a desire to quit school and see the world. Her father expressed his thanks to Miss Marie Weller, Bellbrook, teacher
in Steele High School, who aided materially in the search for the girl.

Matinee hours have been receiving more and more attention from

the broadcasters in the last year
or two, but the biggest buyers of
radio are still reluctant to promote
their advertising hours during daylight.

There have been plenty of indications from the women-folk that
they are not satisfied with the
quality of entertainment served up
during mornings and afternoons.
Letters pour into broadcasting stations from women who wonder why
some of the good things that are
broadcast in the evening can't be transferred to daylight hours.

"The children are at school, and
the men folk are away in the day-
time, and we have more opportunities to listen to programs and concentrate on what is being played
or said," many of the letters read.
"In the evening the men folk
are at home and want to talk or
play cards or read, or there is the opportunity to get to the movies or
to friends."

However, broadcasters are of the opinion that there isn't justification for division of the important
features between afternoon and
evening. On farms the hours of leisure are in the evening. And promoters of commercial hours are
interested in broadcasting at the
time the most persons will be reached, which is in the evening.

The biggest reason why the most important programs are put on in
the evening, of course, is that at
night conditions are more favorable
for distance broadcasting. The
sun has a way of sapping the strength of the Hertzian waves,

and as he looked at her, a kind of

Radio Revue
BY C. KAY

NEW YORK, April 27.—Higher
class daytime broadcast programs
are coming into their own, because
dealers in receiving sets are demanding them.

While the listening public is being considered in the promotion of
the NBC "blue" network afternoon
programs, the main concern of the RCA, the promoters, is the radio dealer.

From the standpoint of the
tradesman in equipment, there has
been too little broadcasting of a
"quality" type during the daytime,
to convince critical prospects that
the contemplated purchase will
handle adequately volume beyond
that of a cafe orchestra. And the fact that good entertainment is on
tap afternoons as well as evening is another good selling talk
for the dealer in high-grade equipment.

The new feature is broadcast
through NBC "blue" network stations, Saturday afternoons at 2:30.
It is a variety hour, with orchestras
of four separate types, instrument
ensembles and notable singers,
presenting programs ranging from
the lightest of popular music to the most serious of classics, providing
a range excellent for dealer demonstration purposes. Saturday afternoon is considered the psychological time for such an hour.

Of course the new programs are
going to be welcome to persons
who are kept at home on Saturday
afternoons by inclement weather or illness.

Matinee hours have been receiving more and more attention from

the broadcasters in the last year
or two, but the biggest buyers of
radio are still reluctant to promote
their advertising hours during day-
light.

There have been plenty of indications from the women-folk that

for he suddenly became aware that
never before in all his storm-swept
life had he had the passionate desire to take any woman in his arms
that he now has for his girl. For a moment his lids drooped again
over his eyes. He could not tell
which was the most unbearable—
his physical pain, or his great heart longing.

"I hardly expected you girls
would come," he said again. "If
I had really thought you would have
been so sweet to pay me this visit,
I would have sent for you earlier
in the evening. I lay here for two hours, calling myself a fool for
thinking you might accede to my unconventional request. At last I saw to it that I was not alone, and
on the spur of nerve-racking pain,
I sent Wilson with the note."

"I never knew time to pass as slowly as it did after he left, until I heard your voices in the other
room. Now that you are here telling me all the news, I want to hear you talk. I want to look into your faces. What have you been doing lately, Claire?"

"Crying most of the time," answered Lynda, bluntly.

FARM HOME DAMAGED BY BLAZE ON ROOF

Quick work after the discovery of the fire, prevented a serious blaze at the V. H. Moore farm residence, Fairfield Pike, Thursday evening. Ray Ellsberry enroute to Xenia with H. C. Hupman and others discovered the blaze on the roof and notified the farm's tenants. Mr. and Mrs. Francis Pittstick.

The fire burned a large hole in the roof and damaged the attic, but was quickly extinguished. It is believed that sparks from the stove caused the blaze.

Radio Revue
BY C. KAYNEW YORK, April 27.—Higher
class daytime broadcast programs
are coming into their own, because
dealers in receiving sets are demanding them.While the listening public is being considered in the promotion of
the NBC "blue" network afternoon
programs, the main concern of the
RCA, the promoters, is the radio
dealer.From the standpoint of the
tradesman in equipment, there has
been too little broadcasting of a
"quality" type during the daytime,
to convince critical prospects that
the contemplated purchase will
handle adequately volume beyond that of a safe orchestra. And the fact that good entertainment is on
tap afternoons as well as evenings is another good selling talk
for the dealer in high-grade equipment.The new feature is broadcast
through NBC "blue" network stations, Saturday afternoons at 2:30.
It is a variety hour, with orchestras
of four separate types, instrumental ensembles and notable singers,
presenting programs ranging from
the lightest of popular music to the
most serious of classics, providing
a range excellent for dealer demonstration purposes. Saturday afternoon is considered the psychological time for such an hour.Of course the new programs are going to be welcome to persons
who are kept at home on Saturday
afternoons by inclement weather or illness.

SWEETHEARTS
AUTHOR of "MY SON'S SWEETHEARTS," "CONFESSIONS OF A WIFE," ETC.IDA H.
MCGILVER
GIBSON

"Why should as pretty a girl as Claire Stanhope weep?"

READ THIS FIRST:
Lynda Fenton, a singularly innocent girl, is private secretary to Ralph Armitage. Her father, a drunkard, tells her that her mother
deserted them, and that all women
have their price.

Lynda meets Emily Andrews,
who cherishes a secret fondness
for David Kenmore, Lynda's companion from childhood. Emily plots
against Lynda from the very beginning. David tells Lynda he loves
her, but she decides she doesn't
want to be in love with any man.
David is away on a trip.

Lynda's father, too, deserts her,
and Claire Stanhope comes to live
with her. Claire tells of innocent
love for Fred Blaque, a married
man. Lynda comes home one day
to find Fred in the house, and
hears Claire entreating him to stay away.

June Challer, who has annexed
money, invites Lynda and Claire
and Emily Andrews to a big party.
It's Lynda's first real affair, and she's enthused. Emily secretly tells David a letter, suggesting
that he come home for the party,
so that Lynda may be made to
feel at ease. Then she sends him
an anonymous note, saying "Ralph Armitage is 'rushing' your girl."

Ralph has met with an accident,
and Lynda goes to his home to take
dictation. There he holds her hand,
and plays up to her sympathy and simplicity.

When she bends and kisses him
lightly, in simple innocence, he terminates the session.

"Oh, of course, she knows she wouldn't get anything," answered
Lynda, again taking up Claire's
cause. "But you can see what this means, can't you? If her name
gets in the papers in connection
with Mrs. Blaque's divorce suit, it will not only part her forever from
Mr. Blaque, but you know your father will discharge her. I am
told by everyone that he is dread-
fully afraid of a scandal in the office."

Ralph's grin had changed to a
sardonic smile. "I expect he thinks
I'm scandal enough for one business corporation," he said, bitterly.

"Look here, Claire," he continued. "I'm going to be very frank
with you. Fred Blaque is one of
my oldest friends; we were both in
'prep' and college together. Of course I like him, but I also know
that his wife has some right on
her side. He has acknowledged
this to me, when I have told him
that he was a very bad little boy,
and advised him to stick it out for
the sake of his little girls, if for
nothing else. One may even get used to any kind of pain. I, who
consider myself an expert on that sort of thing, tell you so."

"Nevertheless, Claire, I am sure
that you are the one woman that
Fred Blaque cares for, notwithstanding he kissed Pamela Shes-
ton good-bye on the avenue at
four o'clock of a sunny afternoon.
Men do queer things. They may
love one woman devotedly, and
still find momentary joy in another woman's kisses. It isn't a very pleasant thought, is it? But you know I told you that I was going to be frank with you."

"Fred was very unhappy the other day when he told me you said
you were never going to have anything more to do with him. After
you found out he was married, he said he had never been the same,
and he didn't care what became
of himself. That's why he has been drinking so much this year."

"That's a good one, Claire," interrupted Lyn. "You are to blame
because Fred Blaque has patron-
ized his bootlegger, more than usual. You will probably also be blamed because he felt inclined to kiss Miss Shes-ton."

Ralph looked rather shocked.
One of the reasons he had been
drawn to Lyn was because she was
not flippant. He wondered if she was growing hard. He went on as though she had not spoken.

"I think he would be glad now
to get a divorce from his wife,
even if she named you as co-responsible, my dear Claire. For then,
perhaps, you would marry him."

Claire Stanhope rose to her feet.

Farm Notes

LEADERSHIP IS AIM

Raising better chickens, pigs or calves is but the sole objective of 4-H club work among boys
and girls. Development of leadership—ability to help others to help
themselves—has become one of the
most important functions of the work.

Training in leadership will be

emphasized at a third district
camp which is to be held in Lick-
ing County this summer, July 9 to July 14. Other club members will receive particular attention at this
camp. Each county may send eight persons. It has been suggested by the District Camp Committee that an equal number of boys and girls
be sent to the camp if possible.

Instruction at the central district
camp will be designed to aid the members attending, to take a leading part in the county camps.
Block printing, camp craft, vesper and camp fire discussion work will be stressed.

Recreation plans for the central camp will be so worked out that they will not only afford enjoyment to the members at that camp,
but will assist them in supervising recreational activities in the recreational camps when they have returned to them.

Enrollments for the central camp
should be made by July 1, through the county club or extension officers, according to the announcement which has been sent out from the state club headquarters.

Radio Revue

BY C. KAY

NEW YORK, April 27.—Higher class daytime broadcast programs are coming into their own, because dealers in receiving sets are demanding them.

While the listening public is being considered in the promotion of the NBC "blue" network afternoon programs, the main concern of the RCA, the promoters, is the radio dealer.

From the standpoint of the tradesman in equipment, there has been too little broadcasting of a "quality" type during the daytime, to convince critical prospects that the contemplated purchase will handle adequately volume beyond that of a cafe orchestra. And the fact that good entertainment is on tap afternoons as well as evenings is another good selling talk for the dealer in high-grade equipment.

The new feature is broadcast through NDC "blue" network stations, Saturday afternoons at 2:30. It is a variety hour, with orchestras of four separate types, instrumental ensembles and notable singers, presenting programs ranging from the lightest of popular music to the most serious of classical, providing a range excellent for dealer demonstration purposes. Saturday afternoon is considered the psychological time for such an hour.

Of course the new programs are going to be welcome to persons who are kept at home on Saturday afternoons by inclement weather or illness.

Matinee hours have been receiving more and more attention from the broadcasters in the last year or two, but the biggest buyers of radio are still reluctant to promote their advertising hours during daylight.

There have been plenty of indications from the women-folk that they are not satisfied with the quality of entertainment served up during mornings and afternoons. Letters pour into broadcasting stations from women who wonder why some of the good things that are broadcast in the evening can't be transferred to daylight hours.

"The children are at school, and the men folk are away in the day-time, and we have more opportunities to listen to programs and concentrate on what is being played or said," many of the letters remark. "In the evening the men folk are at home and want to talk or play cards or read, or there is the opportunity to get to the movies or to friends."

However, broadcasters are of the opinion that there isn't justification for division of the important features between afternoon and evening.

On farms the hours of leisure are in the evening. And promoters of commercial hours are interested in broadcasting at the time the most persons will be reached, which is in the evening.

The biggest reason why the most important programs are put on in the evening, of course, is that at night conditions are more favorable for distance broadcasting. The sun has a way of sapping the strength of the Herstian waves.

FARM HOME DAMAGED BY BLAZE ON ROOF

Quick work after the discovery of the fire, prevented a serious blaze at the V. H. Moore farm residence, Fairfield Pike, Thursday evening. Ray Ellisberry enroute to Xenia with H. C. Hyman and others discovered the blaze on the roof and notified the farm's tenants. Mr. and Mrs. Francis Pitstick.

The fire burned a large hole in the roof and damaged the attic, but was quickly extinguished. It is believed that sparks from the flue caused the blaze.

"She's more apt to get a cold reception."

MAKE FINAL APPEAL FOR MOTOR OWNERS TO TEST CAR BRAKES

A final appeal to motorists of Xenia and the entire county who have not had their brakes tested during the week at the Greene County Automobile Club's special testing station on Market St., between King and Galloway Sts., to submit to the test, was issued by club officials Friday.

The testing, which is free of charge, closes Saturday at 4 p. m. and this will be the final opportunity for determining the condition of the brakes on the family bus.

We regret that the club cannot continue this free testing space every week in the year, but the expense would be too great for one organization to undertake. Secretary Oliver Belden, of the club, said Friday. "To date this week, we have had the co-operation of a majority of motorists of the city, but we want to be sure that everybody's brakes are tested and that everybody gets an 'O. K.' sticker on his windshield."

It is announced that 114 more brakes were tested Thursday and all were found to be in good condition.

The hours during which autoists may have their cars tested have been slightly revised. The new testing periods are from 9 a. m. to 11 a. m.; 1 p. m. to 4 p. m. and from 6 p. m. to 8 p. m.

PROPERTY OWNERS CONTEST ATTEMPT AT ACQUIRE LANDS

County Commissioners are meeting with resistance from at least two property owners in their plan to appropriate certain strips of land through condemnation proceedings in order to obtain needed additional right-of-way for the projected widening of the Xenia-Parish Road to the legal width of sixty feet.

J. Humphrey Dean and Mary D. Wilson filed a motion in Probate Court to squash the notice previously issued, offering them certain damages for land appropriated, but Judge S. C. Wright overruled the motion. The decision was excepted.

Since they have filed notice of their intention of appealing from the allowance made by commissioners for land taken and for damages to the residue, the court fixed the appeal bond at $200. According to another entry on file, Mabel Turner and Ralph Clemmer have expressed their willingness to accept the commissioners' offer of $56.08 for land appropriated in connection with the proposed improvement.

RESERVES VERDICT IN LIQUOR CHARGE

Appearing in Probate Court Wednesday, Edgar Hurst, colored, this city, withdrew his former plea of not guilty to a charge of selling liquor and substituted a plea of guilty. Judge S. C. Wright reserved a decision, as in former cases.

Hurst was among the nine persons recently arrested as a result of a roundup of alleged liquor law

MAKE FINAL APPEAL FOR MOTOR OWNERS TO TEST CAR BRAKES

A final appeal to motorists of Xenia and the entire county who have not had their brakes tested during the week at the Greene County Automobile Club's special testing station on Market St., between King and Galloway Sts., to submit to the test, was issued by club officials Friday.

The testing, which is free of charge, closes Saturday at 4 p. m. and this will be the final opportunity for determining the condition of the brakes on the family bus.

"We regret that the club cannot continue this free testing space every week in the year, but the expense would be too great for one organization to undertake," Secretary Oliver Belden, of the club, said Friday. "To date this week, we have had the co-operation of a majority of motorists of the city, but we want to be sure that everybody's brakes are tested and that everybody gets an 'O. K.' sticker on his windshield."

It is announced that 114 more brakes were tested Thursday and all were found to be in good condition.

The hours during which autoists may have their cars tested have been slightly revised. The new testing periods are from 9 a. m. to 11 a. m.; 1 p. m. to 4 p. m., and from 6 p. m. to 8 p. m.

PROPERTY OWNERS CONTEST ATTEMPT AT ACQUIRE LANDS

County Commissioners are meeting with resistance from at least two property owners in their plan to appropriate certain strips of land through condemnation proceedings in order to obtain needed additional right-of-way for the projected widening of the Xenia Fairfield Road to the legal width of sixty feet.

J. Humphrey Dean and Mary A. Wilson filed a motion in Probate Court to squash the notice previously issued, offering them certain damages for land appropriated, but Judge S. C. Wright overruled the motion. The decision was accepted.

Since they have filed notice of their intention of appealing from the allowance made by commissioners for land taken and for damages to the residue, the court fixed the appeal bond at $200. According to another entry on file, Mabel Turner and Ralph Clemmer have expressed their willingness to accept the commissioners' offer of $56.08 for land appropriated in connection with the proposed improvement.

RESERVES VERDICT IN LIQUOR CHARGE

Appearing in Probate Court Wednesday, Edgar Hurst, colored, this city, withdrew his former plea of not guilty to a charge of selling liquor and substituted a plea of guilty. Judge S. C. Wright reserved a decision, as in former cases.

Hurst was among the nine persons recently arrested as a result of a roundup of alleged liquor law

violators in Greene County, based on information furnished by two colored dry agents.
